

Van Fleet Not 'Out' As Leader

Campaign Debate Over Sending GIs To Korea Mushrooms Like Atomic Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — The great campaign debate over sending South Koreans into the line to replace American soldiers in Korea mushroomed today, billowing out to Tokyo and Paris.

At its vortex, the heat of the word battle brought a White House denial that Gen. James A. Van Fleet is being relieved as Eighth Army commander and, from secret Pentagon files, a mass of data showing:

1. Van Fleet's request that South Korean forces be doubled—from 10 to 20 divisions—was opposed as premature by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, then United Nations commander in Tokyo and now supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty forces in Paris.

2. Ridgway's position was upheld by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Secretary of Defense Lovett.

3. The Defense Department says it has been carrying out a long-range program to turn over the defense of Korea to the South Koreans as soon as leaders can be trained and seasoned in combat.

4. Gen. Mark Clark, Ridgway's successor in Tokyo, has pursued this program and has submitted a longer-range proposal for further expansion, now being studied at the Pentagon.

The New York Daily News published a story today saying Van Fleet was being relieved for writing a letter quoted in a campaign speech by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican candidate for president.

At Detroit, where President Truman's entourage was campaigning for the Democratic ticket, a press aide said:

"President Truman has not fired Gen. Van Fleet and has no intention of firing him."

Earlier, the Army and Defense Departments and Clark's Tokyo headquarters denied receiving any orders from the White House to relieve Van Fleet. Neither Clark nor Van Fleet, who was questioned at Seoul, would comment. A spokesman for Van Fleet said he does not plan to comment.

Eisenhower, on a radio-television broadcast from New York Wednesday night, read part of Van Fleet's letter in support of his contention that Republic of Korea troops should man their own front lines as soon as possible.

The letter, dated Oct. 10, was addressed to Maj. Gen. Orlando C. Mood, Van Fleet's former chief of staff now in Washington, with a copy to Mrs. Van Fleet. The general's wife gave her copy to Eisenhower.

Van Fleet wrote that the South Korean forces are now in "apple pie" order but that he had been unable thus far to win approval of his plan to double their strength to 20 divisions.

Cross Roads Comment

—by G.H.S.

There are millions of people who believe Franklin D. Roosevelt was the smartest president the United States ever had. When first he was a candidate for president in 1932 the most telling argument he used against the Republicans was not so much corruption as it was spending and centralization of government.

No one ever anticipated the New Dealers and their Dealers would go on a spending spree of astronomical proportions, also institute government by bureaucracy that no loyal Democrat ever dreamed his party would sponsor.

What Franklin D. Roosevelt said 20 years ago certainly applies to these times, and by request of some Sedalia Democrats, I am reprinting what FDR said in 1932:

"For one reason or another every wise leader of political party, given long tenure of office, finally fails to express the will of the people, and when it does so fails to express the will of the people, it ceases to be an effective instrument of government. It is far better for such a political party, certainly better for the state, that it should be relegated to the role of critic and that the opposing political party should assume the reins of government."

"We are not getting an adequate return for the money we are spending in Washington, or to put it another way, we are spending altogether too much money for government services that are neither practical nor necessary. And then, in addition to that, we are attempting too many functions. We need to simplify what the Federal Government is giving to the people."

There you are — in two short paragraphs — like the handwriting on the wall. It embraces the destiny of your grandchildren. When they read this in the 40 years ago column in 1972 will they read with loving remembrance of what their grandfathers and grandmothers did in the 1932 elections to keep the nation solvent and free; or to afflict the grandchildren with financial slavery and by such weakness invite foreign aggression?

Jim Green, county clerk, and Miss Grace E. Farley, deputy county clerk, hurry to finish preparing bundles of poll supplies and ballots for the 46 precincts in Pettis County.

County Clerk and Deputy Swamped by Vote Preparations, Will Be Flooded by Results

Election Day lasts one whole month for two people in Pettis County.

The average voter will amble down to the polls during some convenient free time of the day. Other than a possible brief wait in line, he'll spend perhaps five minutes in the voting booth. Then he'll go on about his business and confine the rest of his election activity to listening to the returns on the radio that evening, or seeing the returns as they are posted on the window of The Democrat-Capitol building.

But not these two. Already they have been working a whole week in preparation for the election, and they expect to finish their task about two weeks after Election Day has gone by and has been all but forgotten by the average voter.

County Clerk Jim Green and Miss Grace E. Farley, deputy county clerk, were faced with the start of the project a week ago with the arrival at the office of the poll supplies.

Mass of Materials
Piles of cartons full of tally books, poll sheets, cloth sacks, instruction sheets, election laws booklets, total vote abstracts, sealing wax, pens, ink, indelible pencils, black markers, moisteners and flags were dumped at the office. They had to be sorted, counted and put into delivery sacks for each of the 46 voting precincts in the county.

The sacks and all the envelopes and sacks contained inside had to be labeled with the precinct names and sometimes the names of the poll officials.

In the meantime, there arrived at the office two lists, one each from the county chairmen of the two major political parties, bearing the names of candidates for election judges at each precinct.

From these, three from each party were chosen for each precinct. Ballots Arrive Tuesday

The official ballots arrived Tuesday and had to be counted and added to the sacks of supplies. All this, of course, had to be done between regular office duties.

Further complications arose when a record number of absentee ballot applications began pouring in. Mr. Green and Miss Farley often had to interrupt their work to render service to someone desiring to complete his absentee ballot in their presence for their notarization.

How many absentee ballots constitute a record? On Thursday the combined total for applications for both regular absentee ballots and war ballots was 716.

Asked for some sort of comparison, Miss Farley replied, "In the last presidential election, in the last city election, we thought we received a lot of applications, and our total for that year was 187."

Now the supplies and the ballots have nearly all been put into sacks and await delivery to the polls. The ballots for the 30 rural precincts will be sealed and ready for delivery Saturday. The ballots for the 16 city precincts will be ready Monday after the city registration books have been added to the bundles.

Fill One-Fourth of Office
The filled sacks are large and heavy and take up the floor space of one-fourth of the office. To move all of them at once would require the use of a truck.

Election Day itself will be a long one for the county clerks. They will remain at the office far into the night to record the returns from the precincts as they are brought or telephoned in.

"I expect we'll be here until 2 o'clock in the morning at least," says Mr. Green. Miss Farley recalls closing up the office one election night at 3:30 a. m.

They won't get any rest the next day, either. Back from the precincts will come the sealed ballots and the supplies — the supplies to be sorted and stored for use in future elections and the ballots to be locked in the vault. Tally books and poll books are also locked up.

Official Check Later
Two judges will arrive at the office a day or so later to check the number of votes reported by the precinct judges against the precinct tally books. When the official count has thus been made, the clerks must then prepare copies of the totals to be sent to the Missouri secretary of state, and the two state major party chairmen, as well as copies for the office files.

At the same time they will already have begun to arrange for county payment of the election judges, clerks and registrars, rent on the precincts, janitor services, and the cost of setting up and removing the polling booths.

Nothing more to do then except catch up with all the regular work which, of necessity, had to be postponed or only partially executed in order to handle election procedures.

The wonder of it is that, despite their extra labors, Mr. Green and Miss Farley seem reluctant to give out opinions of elections in general.

They agree on one impressive idea: "When you see, as we do, all the work involved in making an election possible, you really appreciate what a privilege it is to be able to vote."

Hallowe'en Parade
And Party Tonight
Sponsored by Lions

Witches, goblins, skeletons, cowboys, cowgirls, clowns, bunny rabbits, and so on will have a chance to show off tonight at the annual Sedalia Lions Hallowe'en party for boys and girls, young and old. Hallowe'en characters are invited to meet at the library at 6:45 for the big parade up through the business district to Smith-Cotton High School.

The Lions have made plans for a well controlled parade which starts at the library and heads east on Third to Ohio, south on Ohio to Ninth, east on Ninth to the school building, through the west door into the large auditorium.

Everybody is invited to the party at the school where numerous contests and games are to be held. Prizes are to be awarded for about everything that goes along with Hallowe'en. Silver dollars will be presented to the winners.

Thieves Get $35 At Green Ridge School Robbery

About $35 was stolen from Green Ridge School sometime Thursday night after cash boxes had been pried open from two soda machines and a strong-box taken from the school superintendent's office.

The strongbox and one cash box were found the next morning in one of the classrooms. The other cash box has not been found. About $25 was taken from the strongbox, and about $10 from the cash boxes.

The thief apparently tried to jimmy open the office door first, according to the sheriff's office, but a Yale lock prevented it. The thief then broke a hole in the glass door window just large enough for him to put his hand through to turn the lock from the inside.

The sheriff's office reported that several valuable items in the office were ignored by the thief, including a new projector, a speaker system, and a radio.

Some of the little "Trick or Treaters" were on Thursday night in all kinds of costumes and people were going to the doors giving treats.

One little group got their treats from neighbors, then went to one of the homes for a party where they were served soft drinks to go with the treats they had received.

One little boy dropped in on a neighbor to show how he looked going to the masquerade party. He was dressed as a woman, even a veil over his face, and he made a good looking woman, too.

A little later there was a ring of the doorbell at the same house and the woman went to the door to find another boy about the same age but whose bringing up was entirely different. He did not come to show his costume; he did not come for trick or treat; when the woman answered the doorbell he threw a live chicken at her and ran.

The woman tried to get the chicken out—after she had recovered sufficiently from the scare—but the poor chicken was scared, too, and it had great bunches of feathers pulled out of it. She finally got the chicken out of the front room and managed to get him through the dining room to the kitchen, but when the front door was opened a little cat also dashed in and both the cat and the chicken took refuge under the kitchen table—and they were mighty unhappy to see each other under there. They were both for a few minutes, but at last the cat scampered out the open door and the chicken went out, too.

But there are many youngsters to make up for the mean ones at Hallowe'en. One mother made a little cane and tied a red bow on it and then bought a toy lamb so the "kids" would know her small daughter was Bo-Peep. The little girl had

18 Pettis Men To Take Physicals; 3 to Be Inducted

Nine men of Pettis County have been ordered to report for army physical examination Nov. 12 and another nine on Nov. 24.

Three others will report for induction into the army on Nov. 24. They are: Joseph F. Kabler, route 1; Charles S. Wright, 104 East Cooper; and Leonard E. Anderson, Marshall, formerly of route 1.

The three inductees constitute the second lowest draft quota for Pettis County since June 1950, despite a national quota for November of 47,000. The same national quota held for October, during which eight men were inducted from this county.

A quota occurred in December 1950 when only one man was called. Largest quota was established last February when 29 men were called from Pettis County.

Mrs. Verna Williams, clerk at the Selective Service office, said that she has received information showing that not all men are registered when they should. Any man who is 18 years old or more and who was born after Aug. 30, 1922, must register. The penalty for not registering is five years in federal prison or $10,000 fine or both.

Fire Scorches 30 Acres On Farm South Of Here

Fire believed to have started from a lighted cigarette or a carelessly-thrown match, scorched approximately 30 acres of land on the farm of Asa Robertson, route 1, about 7 p. m. Thursday. The Robertson farm adjoins the Catholic Community Center to the east.

According to farmers in the vicinity, the flames started in the road ditch just east of the Center, and swept through a field and into some timber land, burning to the northeast. Volunteers, who arrived on the scene along with farmers, controlled the blaze at the north fence line of the Robertson farm and kept it from spreading onto the property of the Catholic Center.

It was under control in about an hour and a half.

Convicts End Four Day Riot

Release Hostages After Stevenson Prepares His Personal Appeal

CHESTER, Ill. (AP) — Rebellious convicts at Menard state prison capitulated today under an ultimatum delivered at the direction of Gov. Adlai Stevenson to release their seven hostages or be stormed by state troopers.

State police, armed with machine and riot guns, massed at both entrances to Menard state cell house as Michael Seyfrid, state director of public safety, delivered the ultimatum over a loudspeaker.

The convicts, who had been bottled up in the cell house since Monday, hesitated momentarily then an unidentified state police captain got tough.

"Release those guards and do it immediately," he shouted to the unruly convicts as he stood at the entrance of the cell block. "Otherwise we are coming in. And it won't be funny if we come in."

After releasing their hostages unharmed, the 339 convicts marched back to their cells. The guards were haggard and hungry. Two of them had to be helped by guards on the outside. They had not eaten since they had been taken captive at 5:30 p. m. Monday.

Visibly tired from his presidential campaign which he had interrupted to come here, Stevenson had gone into the drab prison yard only a few minutes before.

Later Stevenson said in an interview "It was my personal decision to make the ultimatum. He added that the job of carrying out his order was 'kept in proper channels.' He explained he meant that other state officials actually delivered the ultimatum.

Exactly 90 minutes after he had walked into the prison yard Stevenson had completed his mission. He left by car for Scott Air Force Base near St. Louis. From there, he was to fly to LaGuardia Field in New York. He expected to arrive there this afternoon.

Several gunshots were fired as a warning as state troopers began their advance on the entrances of the cell house.

No tear gas was used. "Bring the keys down here," the police captain shouted. "Wait a minute," a convict replied from the cell house. "Get them down here now," the captain demanded. "We're not waiting."

As he shouted his order guards moved up with burning acetylene torches.

After repeated demands, two of the hostages staggered from the north end of the cell house. They were Lt. Loren Stewart, 55, and Guard William Blythe, 57. They faltered as they walked out. Police and guards rushed up to help them. Blythe was weeping.

A few minutes later the five other hostages appeared at the door. All seven were rushed to the prison hospital.

Lt. Gov. Sherwood Dixon, who had been at the scene for several days, told newsmen that Stevenson entered the cell block himself as "order was being restored."

Two guards armed with shotguns went ahead of Stevenson and other officials as they entered.

A total of 120 state policemen and 101 armed guards were standing by as the ultimatum was delivered.

Only yesterday the convicts had insisted Dixon accede to all 12 demands, without question before they would release their hostages.

Roy Bennett Hurt In Fall from Truck

Roy Bennett, 54, 222 East Walnut, suffered severe and painful injuries shortly after 8 a. m. Friday when he fell from a lumber truck to the concrete floor at the Parkhurst Manufacturing Co., on West Broadway.

Trash Fires In City Ruled Out During Drought Period

A fire emergency has been declared in Sedalia by Mayor Herb Studer, who with Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors and Fire Chief John G. Lueck, appeals to all Sedalians to prevent grass and trash fires. The city officials are asking each and every Sedalian to refrain from burning trash, leaves and setting grass fires to burn-out street ditches.

(Only exceptions to the order is trash can be burned in a protected incinerator or in a furnace. By protected incinerator, is meant where the fire cannot get away and from which sparks will not fly.)

Sedalia's condition can be considered extremely serious, and it, like thousands of other mid-western cities and towns, is suffering from the lack of rain.

"We have been very lucky," they said, "if we can put it that way. We have had grass fires which have, so far, been successfully controlled without any great damage. But that one fire which could get out of control easily under present weather conditions could cost thousands of dollars—and even lives."

One careless person could be responsible for the lives of many. This we do not want to happen in Sedalia, therefore, we are appealing to everyone to cease burning trash, leaves, and dry grass until after we have had rain," they concluded in their joint statement.

As an example of how serious and how easily fires can start, up to shortly before 6 p. m. Thursday Sedalia fire fighters have answered 103 October alarms, the highest month in the history of Sedalia. It is practically one-third of the average number fire alarms answered each year. The total runs for the year has already reached 344 and pushing forward to another record year—the city would like to avoid.

Fire Chief Lueck pointed out a carelessly thrown match by a smoker can also start fires, carelessly thrown lighted cigarette or cigar also can start fires. "See that they are out before throwing them away," Chief Lueck warns.

The announcement of an "emergency" by Mayor Studer, means also, that offenders can be arrested and prosecuted in the City of Sedalia. Neighbors, "If it becomes necessary such action will be taken," Chief Neighbors reported.

Blair Cites GOP Record In Talk Here

Says Candidates Fail to Stay On Same Side of Issues

"My task as a speaker would be simple if I could get the Republicans to stay on the same side of any question," Lt. Governor James T. Blair stated in an address at the Court House Thursday evening.

"I can only deal with their public utterances, and in the national campaign we are faced with a candidate for president who, in one section of the country says one thing and in another section says something different about the same issue."

"The endorsement of Senator Kem by Eisenhower reminds me of a two-headed elephant trying to go three ways," Blair stated in discussing the state issues. "Here we have a candidate for president who is endorsing a senator who is against all of the programs of aid to the North Atlantic Treaty program which Eisenhower headed and for which he pleaded for the support of all Americans. Eleven times Kem voted against the program of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

"Stuart Symington, Democratic candidate for senator, is the only man who has ever been confirmed against six times by the United States Senate. Four of the six times Kem voted for the confirmation the other two times he was absent from the Senate. Yet today, Kem (who since has found that Symington is a candidate for senator) thinks that Symington is a bad man," Blair continued. "These confutations were prior to 1947, but it wasn't until six weeks ago that Kem began his tirades against Symington."

Blair contrasted the voting records of Phil Donnelly and Howard Elliott on the welfare and other programs of the State of Missouri and called attention to the excellent record of progress under Donnelly, and his record of aid to REA, public welfare, law enforcement, and government.

"On the other hand," Blair said, "according to the philosophy of government expressed by Elliott in his voting record in the recent sessions of the legislature, if we followed his leadership, we would have no welfare program, no aid to dependent children, no support of the school program, no department of agriculture, no state fair, or no aid to veterans; he has voted against the appropriations which support all of these necessary agencies."

"Blair further quoted the voting record of Kem in his stands on the REA program, the agricultural program and others. "According to Fred Hinkle, Kem had an opportunity to vote to aid agriculture 23 times while in the Senate, and he voted 'No' every time," Blair said, "and, his record on labor legislation is just as bad with a 'no' vote on 30 bills sponsored by organized labor."

James Durley, Democratic county chairman, presided over the meeting, and introduced the local candidates as follows: William Marlin for representative; John Taylor for sheriff; Louise O'Rear for judge of the western district; E. L. Birdsong for judge of the eastern district; L. P. Howard for public administrator; Jerry Trotter for assessor; Harold Barrick for prosecuting attorney.

Missouri Tightens On Fires

Flames Race Over Thousands of Acres In Many Areas, Some Rage Through Night

By The Associated Press
Communities throughout Missouri tightened their fire precautions today to prevent more damage to rain-needy fields and woodlands.

Firefighters had worked all night in many areas to contain flames. In other places they stood guard over still smoldering fields and tree-stumps.

Thousands of volunteer and professional firemen were busy yesterday, the worst day of the current fire season.

They brought under control a 2-mile square blaze on the outskirts of Joplin, and two large field fires near Clinton.

And they were busy fighting 30 fires that had burned 6,562 acres of state forest land.

One man on the fire line said "flames raced as fast as a horse." A fire five miles north of Lebanon was brought under control early today, but still was smoldering. This fire, which broke out a week ago, flared into a major blaze Thursday and burned 1,000 acres, including hay and corn fields. Fire fighters managed to keep it from the farm home of Bob Woody.

State Baptist Student Union Convention Opens Here Friday

More Than 1,000 College Students Coming for Sessions Thru Sunday

Tonight at the First Baptist Church the annual convention of the Baptist Student Union of Missouri will open with an attendance of more than 1,000 college students expected for the sessions which continue through Sunday morning.

Several leading denominational leaders and speakers are coming for this event — the third state-wide Baptist convention to be held in Sedalia this year. Previously the state evangelist conference and the state brotherhood convention have been held here.

Dr. Duke McCall, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., is the featured speaker for the sessions. He will speak Saturday night and again Sunday morning. The public will be welcome to attend these, and any other of the meetings. Many will recall Dr. McCall as one of the speakers at the evangelistic conference when he was well received.

Tonight the speaker will be the Rev. David House of Kansas City, whose topic will be "Christ Must Reign in the Church." The choir of the Springfield BSU will sing and greetings will be extended by Mayor Herb Stover of Sedalia, Dr. T. W. Croxton, pastor of the host church, and William Hall Preston, of the Baptist Student Union department of the Southern Baptist Convention.

"Christ Must Reign" is the theme for the entire convention and will be carried out in all the general sessions as well as in the seminars which will be held Saturday morning.

The choir of the William Jewell College BSU will sing Saturday morning and Saturday afternoon the Warrensburg BSU choir will be heard. Saturday night the combined choirs of all BSUs in the state will sing "Spirit of BSU," a hymn written especially for the organization that extends throughout the entire Southern Baptist territory. Missouri University's BSU choir will furnish the special music on Sunday morning.

Some of those who will take part on the program include: Ed Sonnenschein, the state president; Glenn Yarbrough, state secretary; Miss Mary Lee Vines, student secretary in New Orleans, La., and the presidents of local BSU councils at these schools:

Southwest Baptist College, the Southeast Missouri State College, Southwest Missouri State College, Central Missouri State College, Northeast Missouri State Teachers College, Northwest Missouri State College, William Jewell College, Hannibal-LaGrange College, Drury College, University of Missouri, Draughton's Business College, Missouri School of Mines, Springfield Baptist Hospital, Harris College, Washington University, Barnes Medical School, Jewish Hospital, Missouri Baptist Hospital and Kansas City University.

Bible Words to Live by

ROMANS 8:38—"I am sure that neither death nor life... nor height nor depth, nor any other creature will be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

It would be more exact to say that the whole 8th chapter of Romans is my favorite passage from the Bible. But space permits the quoting of only the concluding verse of this magnificent chapter in which St. Paul sings in lyric strains the praises of Christian hope. Those who read the Bible for "the consolation afforded by the Scriptures" (Rom. 15, 4) could scarcely find a more suitable passage for their purpose.

The unshaken confidence in God which these verses inspire is based not on mere sentimentality, but on faith in God's word that "there is no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus" (v. 1), who are the sons of God because they are led by the spirit of God (v. 14), who suffer with Christ that they may also be glorified with him (v. 17). Our cooperation with God's grace is necessary. But the ultimate grounds for our hope of eternal bliss lie, not in our own merits, but in God's infinite love for us. Such "hope does not disappoint, because the charity of God is poured forth in our hearts by the Holy Spirit who has been given to us" (Rom. 5, 5).

Sunday School Lesson

"Helps"

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

In the list of those whom Saint Paul said God had set for authority and activity in the church, the list contained in I Corinthians 12:28, some are described as "helpers," translated "helpers" in the recently published version of the Bible in which much reference has been made in newspaper and magazine articles.

I mean "The Revised Standard Version" sponsored by the Protestant Churches, the translation and revision being the work of a large committee of Biblical scholars under the chairmanship of Dr. Luther Weigle, former dean of the Divinity School in Yale University.

It is interesting to note that at about the same time a new translation of the Bible under Roman Catholic auspices has also appeared. I have not yet seen this Catholic version, but I have just been consulting an "authorized New Translation," published under the authority of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in 1941. This is a fine and excellent version in the form of "daily Reading from the New Testament" arranged by Father Stedman.

But to return to this matter of "helpers," which in Father Stedman's arrangement is translated "services of help." I am not a scholar, but this is one instance in which, perhaps without any scholarly warrant, I prefer the simple King James' Version of one-word "helpers."

Whether or not it was justified by the original Greek, there would seem to have been in the minds of those translators in the Shakespearean age some reason for singling out those designated by that one word "helpers."

All good Christians ought to be "helpers" and ought to render "services of help" wherever needed. But what special vision of human need, the ability to help it, and activity in actual helping, made some in the church, "set by God," so distinctive that in a list of apostles, teachers, healers, miracle workers, and administrators, they should have their significant and particular designation as "helpers."

I have wondered who these "helpers" were, and just what offices they performed. The need of helpfulness in the whole range of human life, in the individual, in the home and family, in the church, and in society is so great, and so varied, that one can conjure up all manners of activities on the part of those who have the ability and the purpose to be helpful.

To be a "help" it is obvious that one must himself have found help and be strong in himself. I judge that these "helpers" in the ancient church were some who had no particular concern about doctrine or administration but who had found a keen and close relation to the Christ, who came not to be ministered unto but to administer. They were close followers of a Master, who was Himself the Great Helper.

Local Troops Carry Out Girl Scout Week In Many Activities

Its Girl Scout Week and the troops in Sedalia are observing the event.

Thursday was International Friendship Day, Friday the attention is on arts and crafts and Saturday is Out-of-Doors Day.

Part of the international friendship program has been a project whereby the Sedalia girls have made all the flags of the nations in the UN and also the UN flag itself. This display may be seen in the window of the Missouri Public Service Co.

Those troops which have been working on this project, and their leaders, are as follows:

Troop 30, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lambirth; Troop 24, Mrs. Herbert Berlin; Mrs. Paul Wiemholt; Troop 7, Mrs. John Bowman; Troop 69, Mrs. Lindsey Hayden; Mrs. Paul Sparks; Troop 21, Mrs. Cecil Dump; Miss Buddy Goodpasture; Mrs. Fred Scott; Troop 66, Mrs. C. W. Mathieson; Mrs. Frank Mehl; Mrs. Adolph Belker Jr.; Troop 22, Mrs. Herb Studer; Miss Cecile Harrison; Troop 62, Mrs. Twenter; Troop 61, Mrs. Fred Scott; Mrs. S. M. Hein.

Arts and crafts, the Friday stress, gets more attention than any other phase of Girl Scouting. This week the girls are making book marks that will be given to the Public Library to be distributed thru National Book Week. In the exhibit in the Missouri Public Service window are many examples of hand work.

There are soft, safe toys for little children, dolls dressed in foreign costumes, pot holders, Swedish embroidery on towels. There is never a week but some troop is working in this field.

Saturday, the last day of Girl Scout Week, is Out-of-Doors Day — probably the one that Girl Scouts like the best. The day for a cook out or a hike or a day at the Little House, which in Sedalia means Camp Sakajawea. This Saturday, Nov. 1, Mr. and Mrs. Lambirth are taking their troop of high school girls to the camp to improve the fire prevention. Buckets, barrels and sacks will be placed near the buildings and water will be available. The well is to be left on if any neighbors need water. The Girl Scouts would like to have them know it is for their use.

BOGUTSKI DESERVES RE-ELECTION

Two years ago, when Mike Bogutski ran for prosecuting attorney of Pettis County for the first time, he made public charges via the columns of this newspaper that professional gambling had been permitted to operate openly in certain establishments in this city during the preceding two years.

At that time, he made a solemn promise to you that, if he were elected prosecuting attorney, the proprietors of such gambling places would either have to resort to using their business places for legal enterprise, or else they would have to go out of business.

As you well know, the charges he made were based on a firm foundation, and the promise which he made to you was fulfilled very soon after you honored him with election to the office.

When Mike Bogutski was called to active duty with the Air Force from the reserve last spring, his assistant Harold Bamberg continued the policy of vigilantly guarding against the reestablishment of organized gambling in Pettis County. Mike will return from the military service early next year.

Balked at every turn, the professional gambling interests and their political friends are now actively campaigning against Mike Bogutski, and are working for his defeat and a reopening of their establishments next year.

MIKE BOGUTSKI

Why is professional gambling an evil which should not be permitted to exist? One reason, of course, is that it is a violation of the law. Even more important, however, is the fact that it fosters many other types of moral degradation, such as graft, bribery, broken homes, juvenile delinquency and crimes of violence, including murder — all of which we have seen illustrated right here in Sedalia when organized gambling was permitted to flourish.

Two years ago, Mike Bogutski also made a solemn pledge to the people of Pettis County that, if he were elected prosecuting attorney, he would diligently perform the duties of the office, make a speedy, thorough and fair investigation in every case and, in his judgment, prosecution should be carried out, he would do so as quickly as possible. His aim has been to protect the innocent as well as to prosecute the guilty. The record of his office during the past two years shows that this promise has been fulfilled consistently, in spite of pressures brought to bear on his office by selfish interests.

Mike Bogutski promises that there will be no let-up in the fight against organized gambling, and that there will be continued diligence in the performance of all the prosecutor's duties, if he is re-elected.

On his record, Mike merits your support and a vote of confidence. Vote for, and re-elect, Mike Bogutski, on Tuesday!

The political rally was to be held in a nearby town and a woman, who was to be one of shining stars of the affair and was to be introduced, was down and bought herself a $55 dress.

The night of the big affair hubby got off work an hour early — but when he arrived home his wife looked a little unhappy.

"You know," she said in a disappointed tone, "The rally isn't tonight, it was last night."

Hubby was a bit floored, too. "Gosh," he said, "And you paid $55 for a dress."

Army, Air Force Recruiting Office Open Every Morn

M-Sgt. Roger L. Walker, in charge of the local Army and Air Force recruiting office, has announced that the office will be open to anyone seeking service information every Monday through Saturday from 8 a. m. to noon. The office is located on the second floor of the post office building.

Sgt. Walker will be in neighboring towns from 1 to 4 p. m. every Monday through Friday according to the following schedule:

Monday — Smithton, Hughesville and Houstonia; Tuesday — Green Ridge, Leeton and Chilhowee; Wednesday — LaMonte, Knob Noster and Warrensburg; Thursday — Sedalia; and Friday — Warrensburg.

"I would like particularly the opportunity to discuss with high school graduates the advantages of the new army technical school program now open to them," he said. "High school graduates now have the opportunity to obtain assignments to army technical schools of their choice prior to the time they enlist."

"There are 264 of these schools available to them," he continued. "They have the application forms right here at this office. The graduate sends his application directly to the army school of his choice. The school in turn informs the graduate of his acceptance and of the date on which he must enlist in order to be included in that school's quota."

"There can be no slip-up," he concluded. "It's strictly a winning proposition."

'Apple Pie Order' Confuses Koreans; Can't Translate It

TOKYO (AP)—Koreans and Japanese were puzzled today by Gen. James A. Van Fleet's expression that the South Korean Army was in "apple pie order."

Neither country has any similar expression. Newspapers were perplexed as to what the U. S. Eighth Army commander meant in the letter quoted by U. S. Republican presidential candidate Dwight Eisenhower to support his argument that South Korean troops are not being put in the line as fast as they should.

Translators worked hard to dig up an explanatory phrase for their readers.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Eisenhower Takes Calculated Risk In Endorsing Isolationist Senators

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1952. By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — During the latter years of his life, Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, Republican, was troubled with severe headaches from the brain tumor which eventually brought his death.

Dropping in to see him late one afternoon, it was obvious Vandenberg was not feeling well and I remarked on it. He replied:

"These headaches aren't half as bad as those given me by some of my Republican colleagues in the Senate."

Vandenberg was then in the middle of his fight to put across appropriations for the Marshall Plan, and went on to explain that almost every night Republican Isolationist Senators were meeting privately to hatch their strategy against him. These Senators he named as Jenner of Indiana, Kem of Missouri, Watkins of Utah, McCarthy of Wisconsin, Ecton of Montana, Cain of Washington, and Bricker of Ohio.

Vandenberg, who was cooperating with the Democrats on foreign policy in the same way I described earlier Republican Secretaries of State Frank B. Kellogg and Henry L. Stimson as cooperating with Democratic Senators, finally won the Marshall Plan battle.

And in recognition of that service, Vandenberg's close friend, Paul Hoffman, a Republican and then head of Studebaker, was made Marshall Plan Administrator.

It was a wise choice. No factor played a greater part in stopping the march of communism in Western Europe than the Marshall Plan. And I can say this as one who has been to Europe many times before and since the Marshall Plan, who helped end the paralyzing shipping strike at Le Havre with a load of friendship train food in the dark winter of 1947, who toured through railroad stations pock-marked with bullets from communist rioting, and who paraded through streets carrying American food before crowds which only a short time before had cheered the Communists.

For this stopping of communism, Vandenberg, Hoffman, and the authors of the Marshall Plan deserve great credit.

Eisenhower's Risk
Paul Hoffman left the Marshall Plan to join the Ford Foundation and to head up the Citizens for Eisenhower Committee. Believing that Eisenhower presented the best chance of retaining an even-keeled, non-partisan foreign policy, Hoffman was instrumental in getting the general nominated.

Since then, and since Eisenhower has embraced those same Senators who caused Vandenberg headaches, Hoffman has been strangely silent. So also has Gen. Omar Bradley, who stormed the Normandy beach-heads and, along with General Patton, bore the brunt of the advance through France and Germany. Once strong for Ike, Bradley has changed his mind.

Eisenhower, of course, is taking a calculated risk. He is risking a savage partisan attack on foreign policy, both in Korea and Europe, on the theory that after he wins he can crack the whip over the Isolationist Senators of his own party and keep them in line.

This will probably work for the first two years. But after the patronage runs out, after the jobs are filled, then the maverick isolationists of the GOP will be just as difficult for Eisenhower as they were for Vandenberg.

By and large history has shown, as Frank B. Kellogg and Henry L. Stimson so well knew, that Republican presidents get better cooperation from Democratic Senators than they get from their own party.

Eisenhower And South
When General Eisenhower first decided to invade the South, GOP Chairman Sumnerwell cautioned: "The only time to go south is in the winter."

A secret Republican poll now indicates that Sumnerwell was right. It states: "It is now doubtful whether General Eisenhower will be able to carry more than two states in the South. . . . Best information available shows that Eisenhower's popularity reached its highest during the period Oct. 1-15."

The two Southern States are Florida and Virginia. In Florida, the GOP poll as of Oct. 22 showed like 50 per cent; Stevenson 45 per cent; five per cent undecided. The Virginia GOP poll showed like 48 per cent, Stevenson 46 per cent, six per cent undecided.

Political-Go-Round
Anti-Dewey sentiment is still so strong inside the GOP that when Ike's train approached Rochester, N. Y., a GOP delegation from Monroe County demanded that Dewey not introduce the general. Finally it was agreed that Dewey should introduce GOP Congressman Ken Keating, then Keating would introduce Eisenhower. . . . Sen. Charles Tobey of New Hampshire, the TV crime crusader, has decided not to take a walk on Eisenhower. But he passed out word in regard to any campaigning that he is "awfully busy."

Paul Walter, ex-campaign manager for Taft, is making an emergency tour of key cities to pep up the GOP operation. Walter did a terrific job for Taft before the convention. . . . Probably the only woman who has two Senate candidates as brothers-in-law is Mrs. Jerry Wadsworth, wife of the Deputy Civil Defense Administrator. One brother-in-law is Stuart Symington, Democratic candidate for the Senate in Missouri; the other Archibald Alexander, Democratic candidate for the Senate in New Jersey. Symington, who did a bang-up job as RFC Administrator, seems sure to win. Alexander, who did an equally bang-up job as Undersecretary of the Army, is a long-shot. An A-1 man, he isn't much of a campaign speaker. . . . Sen. Bill Benton's offer in Connecticut to give a public TV addition to Eisenhower hasn't had any takers in that State. . . . Sen. Wayne Morse will spend the remaining time before election day to campaign for Stevenson in New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Lack of Laughs Behind Curtain Worries Reds
By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA (AP)—The Communists have suddenly become worried about the lack of laughter behind the Iron Curtain.

They complain they can't find anyone to amuse them—because the type of laughter they want has to be political.

Western diplomats in Communist capitals say nobody has been laughing for years. Faced with the general grimmace of life, overwork, shortages of food, people of the streets of Moscow, Budapest, Prague and Bucharest are rarely seen to crack a smile.

On trains and buses, passengers sit in virtual silence, staring cheerlessly before them. Young couples rarely laugh and tease in public. Humor in night clubs is impossible; it is never heard on the radio, infrequently seen in newspapers.

"Everybody seems to be afraid to laugh for fear someone will report them to the police," said a diplomat who recently had his first experience of communism. "It seems to me that laughter is considered almost a sin."

Concern about the lack of merriment recently forced the Czechoslovak newspaper Prace to complain there weren't enough newspaper operettas to amuse people. The old ones, it said, couldn't be played any more because they were "bourgeois."

"Many Czechoslovak musicians," it said, "would like to write music for an operetta, but there are no authors to write the text."

The newspaper gave one reason why funny writers apparently can't be found. It said that "laughable weapons exposing the traitors and satire must be raised to the people and a means of educating people."

This means no spontaneous humor, nothing funny that hasn't first been censored by the government.

The Moscow Literary Gazette also expressed worry recently about the lack of humor on the stage and in movies.

The magazine complained: "Nobody wants to write comedies for the movies or for the theater. If one turns to a prominent writer with a request for a comedy, one is refused quickly and categorically."

"This fear of the comedy is due to the fact that several critics, who lack any sense of humor, attack almost every new comedy that is written. They declare everything funny to be unauthentic and estranged from reality."

"The comedy may, and must, play a great part in our life. But it is the most neglected thing of art. There is not one comic script among the movies for 1952. Our stage also does not know laughter."

Murder she yelled

By Joseph Shellie

THE STORY: Rocky Silene, a small-time racketeer, lost a manslaughter charge when High Hill, a vacation resort owned by Al Kemmer, sued for the reputation of his place. Midge Burnett, the guest who was the man alive when she was canoeing with Eddie Fields, an entertainer. Al has expressed fondness for Midge's charms, and his former friend Kitty Lane, another entertainer at the lodge, is jealous of Midge. Dan Morrison, the athletic director, also is fond of Midge. Others who seem to be getting themselves involved in the case include Eddie's wife Roslyn, a guest and a wolf; Sally Ann Frunhick, another guest who has been the body; and a man who has attracted male; C. O. Gricecomb, a neighbor, and Sam Stacey, Al's competitor.

CHRIS WITMER broke it up by coming in with Al's mail. I followed Chris out to the cage to see if by any chance there was anything for an orphan named Morrison. Not even a letter from Uncle Sam saying he wanted me back.

There was a bang on the desk. "Morrison!" Al howled. I went back in. Al flung a sheet of letter paper across the desk. "What kind of a joke is this?"

It was cheap pad paper. The message was printed in pencil. Big crude letters, all capitals: "TODAY AT 10 O'CLOCK BRING FIVE IN A PAPER BAG TO THE LITTLE BRIDGE. PUT IT IN THE MIDDLE OF THE BRIDGE. IF YOU DON'T, THE COPS WILL BE TOLD AT 3:30 YOU MOVED THE BRIDGE. DON'T TRY ANOTHER TRICK. PUT THE MONEY THERE AND GO AWAY."

Al chewed wildly, his bulging brown eyes cutting me up, examining every part. Finally he said, reluctantly, "No, it couldn't be you. You're crazy, but you make different kind of jokes. It must be Eddie Fields."

"Doesn't sound like Eddie's brand of comedy, either."

"Must be Eddie. Who else knows?" The Burnett girl, who said, surprisingly gently, "I got a funny letter this morning, mentioning something about me moving a certain thing. You know anything about it?"

Hal Boyle's Column-- At First Bull Fight He Sees Lots of Blood, Some Human's

MADRID (AP)—The bullfight world has its Babe Ruths like Carlos Arraza, the Mexican foot-wizard who has drawn down $12,000 for stabbing to death two bulls on a late afternoon.

On like dazzling young Miguel Baez Litri, who three years ago was unknown and has just retired — aged 21 — after banking some 22 million pesetas for killing more than 500 bulls.

Spanish fans, the aficionados, are still miffed that Litri, just old enough to vote in America, quit with a half-million bucks at the peak of his career as Spain's top matador without ever suffering serious injury.

But the world of bullfighting also has its rookies — or debutants — and its utility infielders. Spain has more than 500 bullfighters and only the big matadors write their own contracts. The average matador in Madrid gets about $1,100 for his two-bull day and by the time he pays all his agents — including the newspaper critics — he is out up more ways than any bull in the ring.

The first and so far the only bullfight of my life started two debutants and one utility infielder. It was the last one of the season and Madrid's bloodiest of the year. I came out of it convinced baseball is a wonderful game.

Three red-plumed mules were dragging out the second bull's body as I entered the Plaza de Toros, which was shadowed by cloudy skies.

The bulls were big and wide-horned and dangerous — the kind that top matadors don't like because they are too likely to horn a man's leg instead of the red cape. But young or second-rate matadors have to take any bulls that are thrown at them.

That was the problem that these three tail-of-the-season matadors had to face — Antonio Pichardo, 22-year-old veteran male cow killer with more ambition than class, and two "debutants" in the Madrid ring, Manolo Cano, brilliant 19-year-old rookie, and Francisco Blazquez Pacorro, promising 18-year-old beginner.

Each had to destroy two bulls. Pichardo and Cano had dispatched their first bulls and I was handsome young Pacorro that I first saw when I came into the stands.

Despite his youth I was for the bull, as most Americans are when

Midge stared at both of us. "Why, no, Mr. Kemmer."

"Did you talk to anybody about it?"

Midge's little oval face wavered. "Why—why, Mr. Kemmer, you know we all promised—"

"I know, but didn't you say something to somebody?"

Midge shook her head. "I promised, Mr. Kemmer. Her plump lips trembled a little. "Is there any trouble?"

"No trouble," Al said gruffly. "Thanks, Miss Burnett."

He started away. "It had to be one of you!" Al burst out when I caught up with him. "Only you three knew."

"Kitty Lane wasn't far from the station wagon when you were making us promise not to talk. She might have got the idea."

"Don't be a jerk, Kitty!"

"I'm not accusing her. I'm just saying it's possible."

He made a hissing sound. "Another possibility is Sam Stacey," I said. "You made that dumb phone call and razed him. Maybe he started him thinking. Maybe he found the trail where you dragged the body."

"Whoo!" Al shook his head. "That phone call was dumb, wasn't it?"

HE sat there a long time, not speaking, waves of deliberation passing over his face. Finally he let out a painful sigh, slid out of his chair and knelt down in front of the three-foot-high safe in the corner. He clicked through the combination, pulled the heavy door open and took out a small, flat book. "Come on, drive me down to the bank," he said.

"You're going to pay some goofy blackmail—?"

"Goofy is right. That Stacey—the more I think about it, the more I think you made a right guess. Only a nut would ask for a crazy figure like $6500."

"Not as crazy as the guy who'd pay it."

"Not $6500. I'm not going that far. Two thousand. Maybe $2500. I'll write a note that I can't raise any more."

Soldiers Not Getting Much Election News

TOKYO (AP)—The U. S. presidential candidates are talking quite a bit about the Korean War and the frontline soldier — but the American fighting man seldom gets to hear or read much of it.

Many troops in the lines have never heard the voices of the nominees—Republican Dwight Eisenhower and Democrat Adlai Stevenson. And many have not read much of what they have said.

Despite thorough coverage of the campaign by the Armed Services Radio and its network of stations in Korea, Marines and infantrymen haven't had a chance to hear it. There are few radios at the front.

Airmen in rear area fields and sailors are better posted. There is about one radio to every 20 men in rear areas.

Associated Press correspondents noticed only lukewarm interest in the election by most fighting men, some of whom are too young to vote.

However, the correspondents noted an increase in the number of election bets in the last two weeks.

Most of those who will vote have cast their absentee ballots and returned to their war chores. Many learned of the issues through letters and newspaper clippings sent from home.

The Army radio has urged all servicemen to vote.

The Army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, has printed equal stories and liberally used most of the statements of both candidates. But the newspaper usually arrives at a division headquarters in Korea three to four days after it is published in Tokyo and Korea. And it takes more time to get the newspaper to the fighting troops.

Some of the more controversial issues have been missing from the newspaper's columns—notably a letter attributed to Gen. James A. Van Fleet which said the South Korean Army is in "apple pie order," and should be used more to replace American troops. The letter was released by Gen. Eisenhower. There was no mention of it in Stars and Stripes on the day the general released it.

Probe Starts On $9 Million Tungsten Deal

WASHINGTON (AP)—A "top-to-bottom" investigation was under way today into a government deal to buy nine million dollars of tungsten, already the center of a political storm causing rough words on both sides of the Atlantic.

Defense Materials Administrator Jess Larson—who signed the contract and then canceled it as chief buyer of critical goods for the government—told a news conference yesterday he is heading the investigation.

Larson said one thing he wants cleared up is why he was not given an unsigned letter-contract which disclosed that the tungsten deal involved a 5 per cent fee to three men.

One of the three, Col. Lawrence Westbrook, was fired Wednesday night as a Democratic National Committee official. Democratic Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell ordered the dismissal after a New York Herald Tribune story called the case "the biggest 5 per cent deal ever exposed in Washington."

Larson said he has found no evidence thus far of "wrongdoing or influence" in his agencies in connection with the contract for tungsten, a scarce metal used in steel production. He said he will publish all findings and, if there appears to be wrongdoing, will refer it to the Justice Department.

Westbrook, a research and development engineer and former Army man, had been the Democratic committee's liaison with members of Congress since Jan. 5. Recently he had been working in the Texas state campaign for the Democratic national ticket.

Westbrook told the Herald Tribune from Dallas he had done nothing wrong. He blamed the contract cancellation on an international group which he said wanted to sell strategic materials to the United States at a higher price than his client, a Portuguese firm called Companhia Atlantica.

One member of this rival group, Westbrook said, was Brig. Gen. Tom B. Wilson, European director of the Defense Materials Procurement Agency headed by Larson.

In London, Wilson issued a statement last night saying Westbrook "has talked himself into a law suit." The statement said in part: "I have been informed that I have been mentioned in a statement given to the American press by an individual named Westbrook as having been associated with an 'international gang' formed for the purpose of electing Gen. Eisenhower and cashing in on the United States government program for procuring strategic and critical materials."

"The charge is a vicious and unmitigated lie," Wilson said. "He does not know Westbrook and has no stake whatever in the outcome of the pending elections."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican candidate for president, said in a speech at New York City yesterday that the case is the "sort of crookedness (that) goes on and on in Washington."

"They had to fire him because someone caught up with him," Eisenhower said of Westbrook.

Larson expressed "utmost faith" in Wilson, but added that the investigation would include Wilson's activities. Larson said the contract was canceled last Monday after Wilson relayed word from a reliable firm that Companhia Atlantica was seeking to buy tungsten in the open market and resell it to the U. S. at a higher price.

This, Larson said, violated terms of the contract, in effect since Sept. 11 and signed by Westbrook on behalf of the Portuguese company. Even so, Larson added, he would have canceled it anyway if he had known any fee was involved.

In Dallas yesterday, Westbrook denied using or attempting to use his committee position to influence award of the contract. He said in a statement: "My services to the company were not in any manner of the so-called '5 per cent' variety. At the time I joined the national committee, all essential details of

The World Today— 'You're Another' Starts It All

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—If there was any similarity, at times, between a brawl and the presidential campaign just ending, some of the reason was the reason behind most brawls: one word led to another. The words, gentle at the start, finally reached the level of "you're another." There were too many words. The campaign lasted too long.

In fact, the candidates may have lost some votes by taking over the time some favorite TV programs would have had.

The campaign might have stayed elevated if Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gov. Adlai Stevenson had been allowed to argue it out by themselves with everyone else listening in but no one harming in.

But others were in the act from the beginning. There were exaggerations on both sides, some ridiculous, some inexcusable, although exaggeration in a presidential campaign is neither new nor astonishing.

But there was more than just exaggeration in this campaign. There was smear; there were misstatements; there were attempts at character destruction; and the most elementary human emotions were played upon like a piano. For instance, fear of war.

The nation, which has survived other presidential campaigns that were intense and disorderly, should be able to come out of this one intact.

True, it had fine moments and some real eloquence. But the way the candidates were treated by each—and others—it sometimes might have seemed they were running for sheriff.

The day after election much of the campaign oratory can be forgotten as pure political puff. But the campaign showed the growth of a malignancy which cannot be dismissed or ignored by any concerned with the national well-being.

In recent years the country has been afflicted with a deepening cancer: suspicion of one another. And the campaign nurtured it.

Already thoughtful people are asking a question: how long can we continue along this path of spreading suspicion of one another without destroying ourselves?

It was a memorable campaign. But was it one to be proud of?

Garner did not say Adlai "Best Equipped" nominee of 50 years.

UVALDE, Tex. (AP)—Former Vice President John N. Garner did not say here Oct. 18 that Gov. Adlai Stevenson is the "best-equipped" man nominated for the presidency by either party in 50 years. The statement was carried in the opening paragraph of an Associated Press story from Uvalde on that date.

Garner's endorsement of Stevenson said he "is as well-equipped and qualified to become president of the United States as any man who has been nominated by either party in the last 50 years."

Charge, Denial Symington Spends Freely

By The Associated Press
Sen. James P. Kem made public last night a report from a committee of his advisors claiming that his Democratic rival for the Senate had spent excessive funds on his campaign.

A backer of candidate Stuart Symington denied the charges. The Kem committee quoted three reports filed in St. Louis County which showed that Symington spent $15,070.72 on his primary campaign and that the St. Louis County Citizens Committee spent $3,015.70. The third report listed was an expenditure of $61,394 by the St. Louis Citizens Committee for Symington.

The Kem committee claimed that the aggregate total of $79,480.42 exceeds the $16,786 a candidate for the senatorial nomination is permitted to spend, exclusive of travel expenses.

Jacob M. Lashly, chairman of the St. Louis committee commented that the charge "is obviously in error."

"The law does not hold a candidate accountable for the expenditures of others. I feel sure that if Sen. Kem had known the facts, he would not want to take such a position."

Lashly said the committee was careful to collect and disburse all funds "strictly within the letter and spirit of all federal and state laws," and that full reports were filed with the senate committee on privileges and elections.

Commenting on the expense issue, Kem charged last night that "tens of thousands of dollars have been poured into Missouri from outside the state on behalf of Mr. Symington's candidacy."

He said the biggest contributor was Richard S. Reynolds, president of the Reynolds Metals Co. of Louisville, Ky., who Kem said gave $5,000 to Symington.

The Republican also charged that some of those listed benefited from dealing with the government while Symington was in government service.

Kem also reiterated charges that Symington made more than a million dollars in war profits declaring: "Many patriotic businessmen offered their services to their country at $1 a year. But not Symington. He cleaned up at the expense of the American people."

At Clinton, Mo., Sen. Thomas Hennings, incumbent Missouri Democrat, said the American people wouldn't be fooled by the Republican battle cry of "confuse and abuse."

The American people are not likely to view political hocus without a good deal of skepticism," Hennings said.

Phil M. Donnelly, Democratic candidate for governor, quoted his record as governor from 1945 to 1949.

Speaking in St. Louis, Donnelly said that during his administration 45 million dollars was transferred from general revenue to the post-war fund.

In addition, at the close of my term, there was a balance of more than 26 million dollars in the general revenue fund as compared with slightly more than 19 million dollars when I took office."

He said that the state's property tax, sales tax and general tax was not raised to swell the reserve funds.

Egypt Protests West German Agreement To Pay Israel Fund

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Premier Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib announced last night that Egypt has handed the West German government a note formally protesting a recent agreement to pay Israel reparations for Nazi persecutions of Jews.

Naguib handed the note to the new German ambassador, Guenther Pawelke, shortly after the seven-nation Arab League's Political Committee held an emergency meeting here to work out joint action against the payments to Israel. The Arabs contend the money should go to the 900,000 Arab refugees of the Palestine War.

Under the reparations agreement, the West Germans plan to deliver 775 million dollars worth of goods to Israel as restitution for Jewish suffering under the Hitler regime.

Sues for Insurance For Son, Declares Korea Action Not War

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A suit to recover $5,000 insurance for the death in Korea of his son, Stanley, has been filed by Jack Weissman, a businessman, against the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A suit to recover $5,000 insurance for the death in Korea of his son, Stanley, has been filed by Jack Weissman, a businessman, against the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The policy specifies that no payment is to be made if the insured is killed in the military service of any country at war, but Weissman contends the United States is not at war with the North Koreans and that Congress alone can proclaim a state of war.

T&C Wins One, Loses One In Doubleheader

Town and Country Sportsmen won one and lost one in a basketball doubleheader at Whittier school Thursday night and the odd part about the evening's outcome was that the Sportsmen lost to a team they had previously beaten and won from a team that had bested them in an earlier contest.

In the opener, the Sedalia Air Force Base quintette scored a 54-42 victory, three players hitting more regularly than any of the T&C squadmen. Horst racked up 19 points for the winners and his states, Franklin and Jeffers, each had 13. It was Franklin, however, who really slipped the shoes off the T&C feet—he rolled his in his points in the final minutes of the battle.

Coming back for their second game, the Sportsmen dawned a 66-59 despite the fact that Stayer's ace, Arnold, put through a total of 35 points—an even dozen field goals and one fewer free throws.

In that affair Murphy was tops for the Sportsmen with 23 points and Master had 11.

Duke, Ga. Tech In Top Battle Of Saturday

NEW YORK (AP)—Georgia Tech and Duke, two of the killers of the Southland, meet in the No. 1 college football game of the day tomorrow as the season swings in to the home stretch.

Most of the teams that were expected to get their opponents back before the campaign started have been living up to expectations with an occasional upset here and there.

Unless the Engineer-Blue Devil contest ends in a tie, there will be one less undefeated, united team among the major outfits when the results are in Saturday night. Both teams have identical 6-0 records and are rarin' to go. They've been pointing for this one all season.

The contest is rated pretty much of a tossup, but when the two take the field in Durham, Tech probably will rate a slight favorite. Tech is No. 4, The Associated Press poll, Duke No. 6.

Important games are sprinkled over the rest of the nation with the California-UCLA contest probably the best from a competitive standpoint.

This is another one that will have an important bearing on a championship—the Pacific Coast Conference and the Rose Bowl bid that goes along with it. The Uclans are undefeated with a 6-0 mark while Pappy Waldorf's Golden Bears sport a 5-1 record.

If UCLA wins it—as the coast experts think they will—California will be pretty much out of the Rose Bowl picture. It will be between the Bruins and Southern Cal, which meet on Nov. 22. The Trojans get a day off tomorrow.

Of the top teams in the country, Michigan State, No. 1, seems to have the roughest task. It must beat Purdue, which has been cutting a swathe through the Western Conference with surprising ease.

The Boiler-makers have a strong passing attack, which is just what has been bothering the Spartans all season. Still, it would be nothing more than wishful thinking to look for an upset. It shouldn't be a romp for the Spartans, though.

Maryland-Oklahoma, the second and third ranking teams, respectively, have what appears to be easier tasks. The Terrapins go against Boston University and Harry Agganis, Oklahoma, unbeaten but tied once, will test its offensive power against Iowa State in a game that figures to be a romp.

Team Shortage For New Years Bowl Battles

ATLANTA (AP)—There's a shortage of football teams willing to play in a bowl New Year's Day, but there's no shortage in dollars to induce the willing.

With television networks dumping additional cash into Miami, New Orleans, Dallas and Pasadena for the right to put the bowl shows on the air, the payoff per team this winter will be more than ever before.

All of which is fine for members of the Southwest and Southeastern Conferences and a scattering of independent colleges throughout the country. Those leagues and teams see no more wrong with playing football on New Year's Day than they do on a Saturday in October or November.

The Big Seven, Skyline, Southern and Ivy Leagues have banned bowls. Only one Pacific Coast team and one member of the Big Ten can play and they must play each other in Pasadena's Rose Bowl.

With the bowl field cut so drastically by league legislation, bowl promoters and scouts are finding once and twice defeated teams a lot more attractive.

And promoters see nothing wrong with inviting the same team down two years running. Oklahoma went to the Sugar Bowl three years in a row, but on the third year round merchants in New Orleans noted a sharp drop in the number of dollars divided around.

Irvin Poche, president of the Sugar Bowl, said Maryland and Tennessee received $128,000 each for last January's game. TV may bring more per team this year, he added. Three networks are bidding.

"We just want outstanding teams," Poche said indicating a team coming down two years in a row suited him.

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP)—Good Time, a spunky little four-legged dynamo with a heart as big as a bucket of oats, retired from the harness racing scene today after shattering the Yonkers Raceway track record for a mile.

Going against the clock he was caught in 2:00 4-5 on the half mile oval.

Bill Cane's six-year-old star, moreover, accomplished the feat under adverse conditions, for in a warmup shortly before the trial, he popped a curb in his left rear leg. This is a calf muscle injury.

Cane, maestro of the famed Hambletonian, and driver-trained Frank Ervin decided, however, to let Good Time make the attempt before a chilled crowd of 15,754.

Ervin is a former Sedalian, who grew up on the Missouri State Fair Grounds.

Good Time, greatest money-winning harness horse in history, broke his own Yonkers record of 2:01 flat for a half mile track. That mark was made here Oct. 17 and equaled again, Oct. 23.

The son of HAL Dale hangs up his horseshoes with a total of $318,792.56 in the bank. He has earned $110,299.10 of this during the 1952 season, the most money ever earned in one year by a standardbred.

The six-year-old has won most of the major pacing stakes offered in this country. Good Time has started 110 races, and won 78, with a record of 23 victories in 33 outings this year alone.

His name will go down with Dan Patch, Billy Direct, John R. Gentry, Star Pointer and others as one of the greatest pacers in American harness racing history.

Turner-Dykes Match Postponed to Dec. 1

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gil Turner's scheduled rematch with Bobby Dykes has been postponed from Nov. 18 to Dec. 1.

Announcement of the postponement was made yesterday by promoter Herman Taylor, who said Dykes had informed him he received an eye injury in losing a split decision to Lester Felton at Louisville Monday night.

The fight between Dykes and Turner, young Philadelphia welterweight title hopeful, was to have been held at Convention Hall here.

Taylor said he had arranged a substitute match Nov. 17 at the arena here involving Percy Bassett, ranking featherweight from Philadelphia, and Teddy (Red Top) Davis, of Hartford, Conn.

S-C Tigers Play Tonight At Raytown

Smith-Cotton High School Tigers journey to Raytown today where at 8 p. m. they will meet the high school football team in a non-conference tilt. The Tigers are far from being up to par for tonight's game according to Coach Ralph Dow, who stated many of the players have been visited the past week by "Mr. Virus."

Lanny Crouch, regular right tackle, is too ill to even make the trip and will be replaced by Melvin Jones.

Coach Dow is making a switch in the starting lineup tonight in the backfield. Dave Lingle is moving back to the right halfback position which he plays far better than at fullback and then Jimmy Schmidt will take over the fullback position. Bobby Case will be at left halfback and "Buck" Bennett will continue at the quarterback slot.

Carl Miller will be used to give relief to Lingle instead of starting. The line will be the same as last week with the exception of Crouch replaced by Jones. It will be Benny Neal, left end; Phil Wulff, left tackle; Ernie Deuel, left guard; Earl Nold, center; Darrell Ford, right guard and Benny Walker at right end.

The team other than suffering from the virus infection has been showing up well and no injuries other than a few minor bruises have been received. Bruises would have been held at a minimum had it not been for the dry, dusty hard ground at the Smith-Cotton gridiron.

Raytown in 1951 bowed to the Tigers 6-13. They lost to the Tigers 20-0 in the old Show-Me bowl game in Columbia in 1948, the first Show-Me bowl contest. Tonight they will be after revenge for those two defeats and if the game goes like other "revenge-seeking" games—Sedalia is in for another loss.

Brecheen Joins St. Louis Browns

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, the 38-year-old pitcher who had come to be regarded as a fixture in the Cardinal organization, will be sporting the uniform of the St. Louis Browns next season.

The Oklahoma signed a contract with the Browns yesterday as a pitcher and coach, shortly after he had been given his unconditional release by the Redbirds.

The Cardinals had made Brecheen an offer as a coach.

"We were going to start Brecheen (as a coach) at $10,000," said Cardinal owner Fred Saigh.

Yanks Plan New Moves On Waiver Rule

NEW YORK (AP)—Incensed at being made what they consider the scapegoat, the New York Yankees today were formulating their plans on the new waiver rule, which apparently was aimed squarely at them.

It is an anti-waiver legislation that will make it mandatory for a team to obtain waivers on a player from both major leagues after July 31. The present rule requires that a team obtain waivers only from its own league.

For the past four years the Yankees have gotten players from the National League after July 31 who have helped them in their pennant drives. There was Johnny Mize in 1949, Johnny Hopp in 1950, Johnny Sain in 1951 and Ewell Blackwell this year.

For the rule to become official, a majority of the clubs must vote in favor of the legislation at the Phoenix. President Dan Topping of the Yankees has said that he would favor the new rule, but judging by the statements issued by General Manager George Weiss, Topping may change his mind.

The minor league teams, which meet in Phoenix starting Dec. 1, also have to okay it, and it is highly possible that if the Yankees decide to oppose it, they could gather enough strength to defeat the measure.

Weiss contended that the Yankees had been "cast in a bad light" despite the fact that they have never obtained a ball player by going beyond the rules of baseball.

"The Yankees always have lived by the rules passed at the major league meetings, and we will live by any rules passed at the next one," said Weiss.

Weiss said that the Cleveland Indians purchased three players on waivers from the National League—shortstop George Strickland, outfielder Wally Westlake and pitcher Ted Wilks. Furthermore, he said, "two of the three players could have been purchased by the Yankees, but we passed them up."

Sports Roundup—

Rocky and Manager Al Weill Enjoy New Road to Riches

NEW YORK (AP)—These are long and wonderful days and nights for Rocky Marciano, the shoe-maker's son from Brockton, Mass., who knocked out Jersey Joe Walcott just over a month ago to win the heavyweight championship of the world.

They are fully as long and pleasure-filled for Al Weill, the colorful Broadway character who plotted Rocky's course to riches with one hand, his left, while with the opposite maulie he held a strangle grip on the fight game as matchmaker for the all-powerful International Boxing Club.

It was a clever piece of business in every respect, and Al is proud and happy to take both the bows and the money which is piling up at an alarming rate.

Asked if he had any slight misgivings about Rocky's return date with Walcott next spring, either here or at Chicago, Al said positively not.

"I'll tell you why," he said. "That night Walcott was in the greatest condition of his life. He can't ever be that good again. He dealt Rocky a lot of punishment yet the kid still had enough left to knock him cold in the 13th round. Rocky will get him a lot quicker the next time."

"Another thing, the next one won't be held at Philadelphia. We had too much going against us down there. Rocky couldn't see for three rounds from that stuff he got in his eyes. That was terrible. And when the 12th round ended one of the judges already had scored eight rounds for Walcott."

"When Rocky came to the corner after the 12th I leaned over him and I said 'Rock, you're in trouble. You're behind, and you might never get another chance if you don't knock him out now.' Rocky looked up at me and said 'Is that true, Al?' And I told him it was."

Forty-five seconds and he landed as sweet a short right as I ever saw. They knew he had a left hook, but they didn't know about the short right."

How about Ezzard Charles? Had he and Rocky taken on added respect for the former champion since watching him hammer-up Bron in the Garden last week?

"Well," Al said after some thought, "we might be fighting him some time, and I make a point never to criticize a future opponent. That's not good for business. But I'll say this about Charles' new style—this crowding in and punching all the time—every fighter is born with a style or he isn't born with it, and he can't change to some other style."

Colorado Has Its Hands Full With Utah Utes

KANSAS CITY, (AP)—There's apparently no letup for the rugged but unlucky University of Colorado Buffaloes.

Coach Dallas Ward's Rocky Mountain entry in the Big Seven conference, tough as any of its league members but charged with two ties and a loss against one victory, meets an old-time enemy in the Utah Utes at Salt Lake City tomorrow.

All other Big Seven members will be busy with family affairs. Oklahoma is expected to continue rolling against Iowa State at Ames, Ia., Kansas is a big favorite over Kansas State at Manhattan.

League-leading Missouri and the Nebraska Cornhuskers, who are tied with Oklahoma for second and third places in the standings, will meet at Lincoln, Nebr. The Missourians are expected to arrive in Lincoln tonight.

Colorado will be the favorite over Utah, but the series is one of the oldest in that section and a Ute victory would even it up at 23 victories apiece.

The Buffaloes admittedly are much stronger than their conference record indicates. They tied Oklahoma, the Big Seven's great team, 21-21, and tied Nebraska last week, 16-16. Kansas edged the Buffs, 21-12, in a game that wasn't decided until late in the final quarter.

Kansas State will play Saturday without the services of ends Jack McShuls and Ken Barr and fullback Elmer Creviston. All are injured. Kansas has defensive regulars Gil Reich and John Kohek on the doubtful list.

Bearden Tops All Hurlers As a Batter

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene Bearden of the St. Louis Browns, who had a mediocre 7-8 record on the mound, distinguished himself as the leading hitter among major league pitchers during the 1952 season.

Final Associated Press statistics disclosed that the 31-year-old southpaw moundsman, who also bats from the left side, cracked out 23 hits in 64 times at bat for a healthy .359 average. Gene was the only regular pitcher to hit within the charmed 300 circles in '52.

Bearden's safeties, many of them coming in a pinch-hitting role, included three doubles. He also batted in eight runs and scored six.

In the National League, Chicago's Bob Rush compiled the highest mark, .292. The tall Cub right-hander had 28 base hits in 96 tries, including five doubles and the triple. Bob's record also shows 15 runs batted in and five runs scored.

Johnny Sain of the New York Yankees was runner-up to Bearden in the American League. The veteran pitcher, who came through handsomely for manager Casey Stengel both on the mound and at bat, compiled 19 hits in 71 trips to the plate for a .268 slate. Among his hits were four doubles, one triple and one homer.

Tommy Byrne of the Browns was third at .250, followed by Frank Shea of Washington, .238 and Bob Lemon of Cleveland and Mickey McDermott, Boston, with .226 each.

Bratton Favored Over Joe Miceli In Bout Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Unpredictable Johnny Bratton, inclined to follow good fights with lazy exhibitions, is a heavy favorite over rough Joe Miceli tonight at 9 p.m. (CST) in a nationally televised welterweight 10 - rounder at Madison Square Garden.

But Miceli is no soft touch for this former NBA welter champ. Moving up in the ranking on the strength of wins over Luther Rawlings, Virgil Atkins and Pierre Langlois, the 23-year-old laddie from New York's east side can upset the odds.

Miceli is a unorthodox fighter, relying on a left hook-uppercot and a hell-for-leather slambang style. He figures to be moving in to Bratton, and crowding him.

If Bratton is having one of his good nights, a crowding brawler can be just what the doctor ordered. For the 25-year-old Chicago Negro is a sharp puncher. He knocked out Bobby Dykes in the first round and stopped such men as Lester Felton and Eugene Harris. When he is having a bad night he is content to take it easy, putting out just enough effort to win. That style has not been doing so hot.

Miceli has quite a neighborhood following that may produce a $20,000 house, a boom in these television days.

Both fighters have 70 per cent winning records. Bratton in 74 bouts has won 52, lost 19 and fought three draws. He was stopped twice, each time on a broken jaw. Kid Gavilan also broke his jaw in winning the welter title last year but Johnny managed to last the 15 rounds.

Miceli has a 36-11-4 record for 51 starts. He never has been stopped, since he entered the Army in February. He has had six fights, winning four, losing to Dykes in a close battle and losing 10 to a draw with Joey Giardello.

Potts' Hold Grand Opening Of Youngstown Kitchen Dept.

The grand opening of the Potts Youngstown Kitchens Store, 420 West 16th, is to be held Saturday and Sunday from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. each day. R. A. Potts of the Potts Construction and Building Supply Co., has been named manufacturer's representative for this area.

Mr. Potts, in discussing the addition of Youngstown Kitchens to the line of other household supplies, stated they are now in position to deal direct with contractors building new homes in this area. This gives the contractor an opportunity to see every piece of the Youngstown Kitchen equipment at first hand before installation and also have the assistance of experienced kitchen engineers in laying out a well planned kitchen.

"We offer a complete service of wall-to-wall kitchen units. Our staff has been schooled in kitchen engineering by Youngstown kitchen engineers and all are well qualified to assist individuals in planning and modernizing an old fashioned kitchen, or assisting a contractor in planning a new efficient kitchen," Mr. Potts said.

Members of the Potts staff who took the engineer program given by the Youngstown Kitchen engineers are: Loy Austin, 413 North Prospect; C. E. Potts, 620 East 16th; Kenneth Austin, route 3, Sedalia; Mrs. Wanetta Smith, 1618 South Sneed and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Potts, 1700 West 11th.

"Youngstown Kitchens Stores," Mr. Potts said, "are known as Kitchen Institutes. They are to promote plans, design a complete job and offer a kitchen in a 'package unit' to the satisfaction of the purchaser for modernizing the old fashioned kitchen. We will engineer a new kitchen with a contractor and the prospective buyer of a new home to their liking."

"Not only are we commissioned for wholesale sales, but we also retain our retail outlet. We have in stock every piece of a kitchen unit from a faucet, dish washing machine, stoves, sinks, to every type of a cabinet of the Youngstown Kitchens."

Continuing he said, "We not only have plans for kitchens, but our units are designed for many business and professional uses. They are often used to furnish clinics, pharmacies, dispensaries, hospitals, doctor and dentist offices, schools, laboratories, plant restaurants and beauty and barber shops and various institutions."

"It is a pleasure to tackle that troublesome kitchen which has projecting chimney corners, odd-shaped rooms, low window sills, exposed radiators, exposed pipes, tight-fitting corners; not forgetting to mention the breakfast and snack bars, convenient serving counters, wall writing tables and wall bars, planning and work desks, dressing tables, bathroom shelves, closets, range shelves, laundry and so forth," he concluded.

The store handles everything from Gold Seal linoleum, Zephyr awnings, Crawford overhead doors, the Modernfold doors, Minnesota paints, wall paper and on down to the smallest of nails.

Elmer Sholl, 1813 South Grand, and Howard Durham, 120 South Prospect, only recently completed a schooling by the Gold Seal Linoleum Co., in handling and laying of various types of floor covering. They attended the school at Kearney, N. J., and now Potts has a complete service in this line.

The original building of the Potts Construction and Building Supply Co., was 44x60 and was recently enlarged to a building which is now 44x170. The front or showroom part of the building, which gives ample room for displaying the Youngstown Kitchens as a complete unit in two different settings, as well as display room for many other merchandising articles.

British Turn-Down Russian Proposal For Peace In Korea

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 30—(AP)—British Delegate Selwyn Lloyd today turned down Andrei Y. Vishinsky's proposals for a new U. N. commission to settle the Korean War.

In a speech to the U. N. Political Committee, Lloyd denounced the demand repeated yesterday by Vishinsky for prompt repatriation, upon a cease fire, of 121,000 prisoners held by the U. N. forces. The British delegate said in a stern voice that "it would be a crime against humanity to treat these men in such a way."

Chinese Seize Triangle Hill In Grim Fight

SEOUL, Friday, Oct. 31—(AP)—Chinese Reds in human sea attacks seized Triangle Hill early today, handing the Allies their worst setback since the battle of the Central Front heights broke out 18 days ago.

A front dispatch said the Reds broke through Allied lines so swiftly that one company of defenders was trapped on the height.

The onslaught by 2,000 Chinese was pressed relentlessly through an Allied artillery barrage so withering that one of three attacking Red battalions was cut to pieces and withdrew.

AP Correspondent John Randolph at the front said the loss of Triangle posed a major threat to the western flank of the Allies on nearby Sniper Ridge, which it overlooks. The Reds hit Sniper with a light attack.

The Chinese seized the summit of Triangle Hill at 2 a. m., then pressed on south. Confused fighting was in progress at the base of the Triangle in the pre-dawn darkness.

Allied artillery fired in maximum concentration with everything up to eight-inch guns, Randolph reported.

Heaviest Recent UN Loss
It was the heaviest loss of territory the Allies have suffered in the 18-day-old battle on the front north of Kumhwa.

The U. S. Seventh Division had seized Triangle Hill Oct. 15.

The Allies had held Triangle since, despite all the fury of Red counterattacks and violent artillery barrages.

About 150 Chinese simultaneously attacked Sniper Ridge, about a mile east of Triangle Hill, early today. There was no sign that this was a major effort to take the ridge, however.

Already the long battle had cost the Chinese 11,000 casualties, but there was no sign of a letup in the swaying struggle.

Artillery fire from both sides was intense.

An Eighth Army staff officer said the combined Red and Allied barrages probably were the greatest of the war.

Allied casualties have not been announced. But front dispatches have indicated they are severe and the casualty curve has been rising in weekly reports from the Defense Department in Washington.

A Peiping broadcast Thursday asserted Allied forces suffered 4,000 killed along the front from Oct. 20 to Oct. 26. Red casualty claims are exaggerated, however.

Red Toll Reaches 11,000
So far in the battle for Triangle and Sniper Ridge, Allied officers estimated, U. N. troops have killed or wounded more than 11,000 Chinese Communists.

West of this sector, Allied tanks and infantry fought all day Thursday with about 200 Chinese for an advance hill south of Pyonggang. The rest of the 155-mile front was quiet.

In the seven-day period ending Oct. 28, the Eighth Army announced, evaluated enemy casualties totaled 5,789 on all fronts. This raised the total for October to 32,885 Reds killed, wounded or taken prisoner—making this the year's most costly month to the Communists.

Despite clouds which covered much of North Korea yesterday, Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers struck four large troop concentrations in North Korea, wrecking 150 enemy occupied buildings, the Air Force reported. The biggest troop concentration was south of Hamhung, deep in Northeast Korea, where an estimated 70 buildings were leveled.

Fires Rage Close To Kirksville Edge

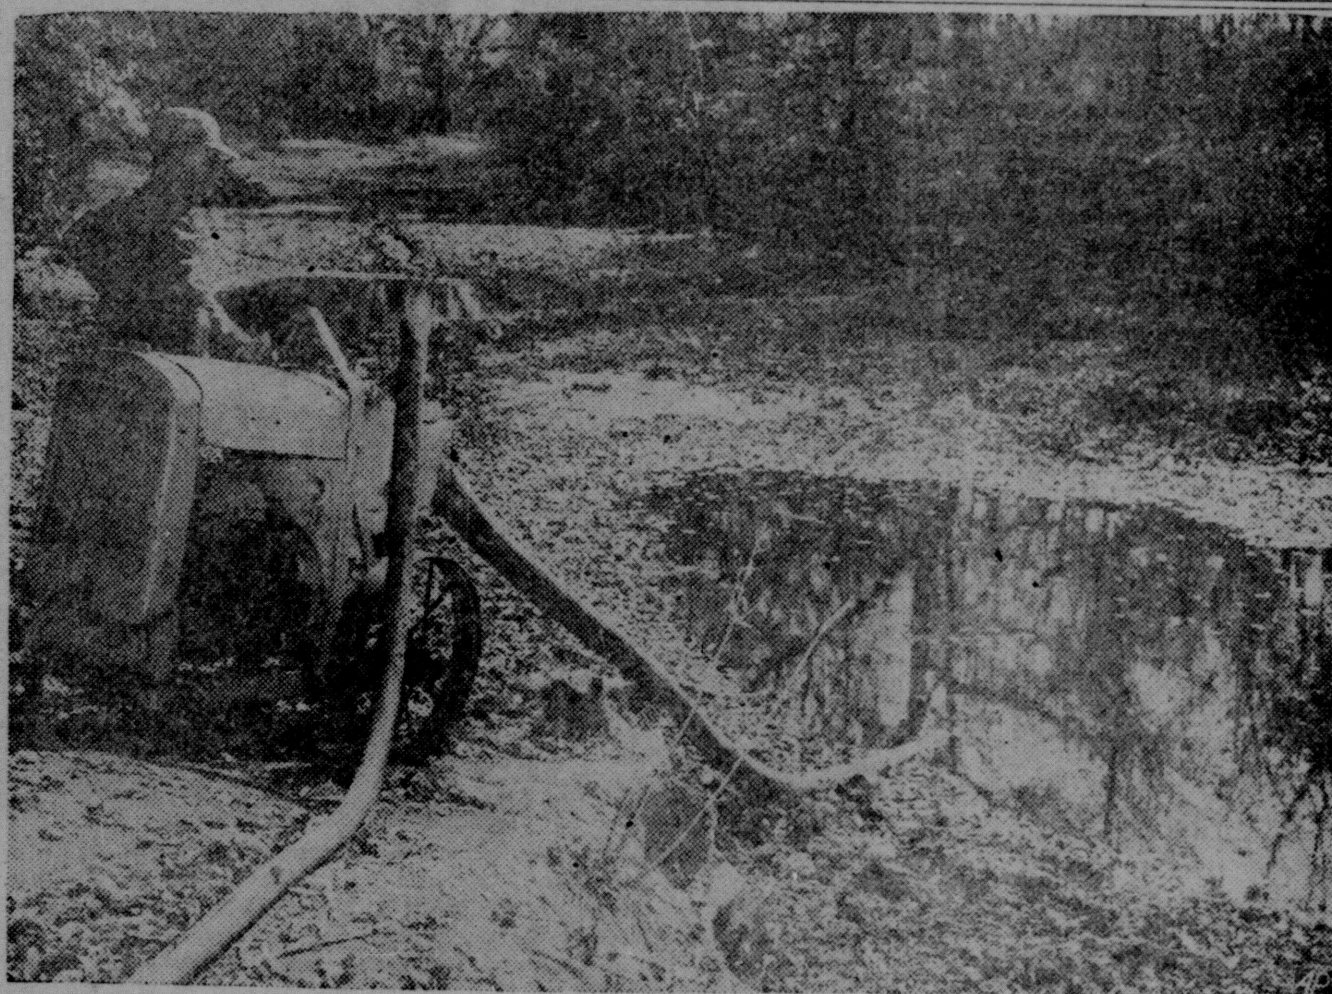

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Oct. 30 (AP)—Fires raged on the outskirts and in nearby areas of Kirksville today.

The most disastrous fire covered 200 acres of grass and timber near Yarrow, Mo., southwest of Kirksville. The Sublette Air Force Base near here had 110 men on the job and the Kirksville College of Osteopathy sent its freshman and sophomore classes, totaling more than 200 to assist in the fire fighting.

No injuries had been reported and no residential areas were in serious danger.

In Kirksville, fires swept through two cemeteries. A fire at the city dump and one cemetery had the city fire department tied up.

There also were reports of another grass fire northwest of Kirksville.

WATER SUPPLY VANISHING—This Kansas town's water supply source is vanishing under the impact of the long drought in the Midwest. Here water is pumped from one of the few remaining water holes in Pumpkin Creek into a line leading to the processing plant of the Mound Valley community. Lyle Price city councilman, glumly watches the operation and estimates the content of Kansas town of 608 persons. It is estimated the community's reservoir will be dry and such emergency sources of supply as this will be exhausted in two weeks unless the drought is broken. (AP Wirephoto)

Little Time Left For Vets On Insurance

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—(AP)—Some 1,200,000 veterans have no more—and in some cases much less—than 14 months to reinstate 10 billion dollars worth of term life insurance policies which have lapsed.

The Veterans Administration said today that unless reinstatements are made in that time the policies "will be lost forever."

The policies involved are lapsed term National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) that were issued to two groups of World War II and post-World War II veterans.

The two groups are:
1. The 1,000,000 World War II veterans who took out term NSLI policies while they were in service during the last two months of 1944 and all of 1945.

2. The 100,000 World War II and post-World War II veterans who took out term NSLI policies while they were in service during the last two months of 1947 and all of 1948.

The first group have eight-year term policies and the second group have five-year term policies. Both terms expire during the last two months of this year or during next year, depending upon the anniversary date of each policy.

The Veterans Administration said that if veterans in either group do not wish to lose this coverage altogether, they must reinstate their policies before the terms expire.

The agency said applications for reinstatements should be sent to it.

Plane Helps Doctor Treat Polio Victim
KANSAS CITY, Oct. 30 (AP)—A chest respirator was flown to Columbia, Mo., late today to enable a physician to perform an operation on a 13-year-old polio victim.

The patient is Harry Kleithers of Meta, Mo., who was admitted to Missouri University Hospital today. A doctor performed the operation immediately after the respirator arrived.

Request for the machine was made to the Jackson County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis at 4 p. m. The respirator left by chartered plane 20 minutes later.

Ike Accuses Adlai, Truman Of Slander, Dirty Campaign

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower tonight accused President Truman and Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of "unrestrained slander" and said the Democrats are waging a "dirty" campaign.

"The most scurrilous in American political history," Eisenhower said, "is the campaign of slander and innuendo which the Democrats are waging against me and my administration."

Eisenhower did not call the President and Stevenson by name, but he left no doubt he was talking about them in an address prepared for delivery at a Madison Square Garden rally for national television and radio.

In angry language, Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee, declared that in his life time he has been worked over by "poison pen" experts in Nazi Germany and Russia.

"But until our success in this campaign drove our opponents to desperation, no one had ever engaged in such unrestrained slander as to charge I would trim my principles to run for office," he added.

Both Truman and Stevenson, along with some other Democrats, have made precisely that charge against the general.

He Points-Out Ouster
Earlier, in a day long tour of New York City, Eisenhower called attention to the firing last night of an official of the Democratic National Committee, who stood to profit from a government purchase of tungsten ore.

Eisenhower called him "the biggest five percent of all" and said:

"They had to fire him last night because someone else caught up with him. It keeps going on and on. . . . Is that the kind of government you put your trust in?"

Eisenhower's Madison Square Garden address climaxed three days of campaigning by the general in the New York area in a bid for the state's important bloc of 45 electoral votes.

Speaking during the day in Staten Island, Manhattan and Brooklyn, the general had rapped back hard at Stevenson, declaring there is no easy way out of the Korean War—only a long, hard way.

250,000 Hear Speech
The GOP nominee told a police estimated crowd of 250,000 persons in Manhattan's garment district:

"No man has ever heard me say there is an easy way out of the Korean War. It's a long, hard, weary way."

His Democratic opponent has contended that Eisenhower and other Republicans have implied there is an easy way.

In his speech tonight, the general said the Democrats have been trying to put across the idea that he has changed since winning the GOP nomination last July.

"It is they who have changed," the general declared. "Because they could not exploit me, they are determined to destroy me; to destroy by lifelong friendships, my reputation, my spirit."

"But, ladies and gentlemen, I have been through real bombardments and I am unscathed by their fusillade of blanks and blankety-blanks."

Adlai Drops Campaign; Goes To Revolt Scene

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 30—(AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson announced tonight he is suspending his presidential campaign temporarily to fly to Illinois in an effort to settle a state prison riot.

Stevenson said he would resume the campaign "as soon as circumstances permit."

He added: "My purpose is to confer on the spot with my associates who have been handling the difficult situation there."

Parley Fails To End Revolt Of Prisoners

CHESTER, Ill., Oct. 30—(AP)—Mutinous convicts and officials reached a stalemate today in negotiations to end a rebellion at Menard State Prison as seven starved and haggard hostages began their fourth day without food.

A series of parleys with the 331 unruly convicts blasted hopes expressed by acting Gov. Sherwood Dixon for an early end to the uprising, perhaps today.

The rebel convicts sent word to Dixon they would release the six guards and a prison lieutenant seized in the original outbreak Monday only if he met 12 demands without question.

Later they modified this by agreeing to withdraw demands, such as one calling for relaxation of state parole regulations, that would require legislative action.

Robert Rees, information director of the State Department of Public Safety, said "it is quite obvious the acting governor will not dignify this message with a reply."

Three officials were permitted to see the seven hostages, who were brought to the entrance to the besieged east cell block one or two at a time, escorted by convicts armed with clubs.

Heavy Inflow Checks Corn Price Advance; Other Grains Follow

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 (AP)—An expansion in arrivals of cash corn brought a halt today to the rousing upturn corn prices have been enjoying this week on the board of trade.

Other grains retreated with corn, largely because of limited demand rather than any heavy selling, but soybeans scored modest gains. Feature in soybeans was quite a bit of short covering in the November contract, on which deliveries of cash beans can be made Monday.

Wheat closed 3-1/4 lower, corn 1/2 lower, rye 1/4 lower and soybeans 3/4-1/2 higher.

Cash corn receipts totaled 332 cars. This was considerably higher than yesterday. Brokers attributed the increase to the price advance this week, which had got back most of last week's sharp losses in the cash grain. They felt there were plenty more surplus grain which could come to market.

Weather continued dry in the winter wheat belt. The weekly Kansas crop report said, "drought conditions continue throughout the state with the situation becoming more serious each day." The Nebraska report said, "a rather serious, but not hopeless, outlook for wheat was revealed by autumn subsoil moisture testing."

Columbia Attorney Dies
COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 30 (AP)—Lakenam M. Price, 65, Columbia attorney, died today at a hospital after a brief illness. He is survived by his wife and son and a brother, R. B. Price, president of the Boone County National Bank.

Price established a law partnership with the late Lt. Gov. Frank G. Harris here in 1912. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

City Urges Care By All With Fire

A fire emergency has been declared in Sedalia by Mayor Herb Studer, who with Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors and Fire Chief John G. Luck, appeals to all Sedalians to prevent grass and trash fires. The city officials are asking each and every Sedalian to refrain from carelessly burning trash, leaves and setting grass fires to burn-out street ditches.

Sedalia's condition can be considered extremely serious, and it, like thousands of other mid-western cities and towns, is suffering from the lack of rain.

"We have been very lucky," they said, "if we can put it that way. We have had grass fires which have, so far, been successfully controlled without any great damage. But that one fire which could get out of control easily under present weather conditions could cost thousands of dollars—and even lives."

"One careless person could be responsible for the lives of many. This we do not want to happen in Sedalia, therefore, we are appealing to everyone to cease burning trash, leaves, and dry grass until after we have had rain," they concluded in their joint statement.

As an example of how serious and how easily fires can start, up to shortly before 6 p. m. Thursday Sedalia fire fighters have answered 103 October alarms, the high month in the history of Sedalia. It is practically one-third of the average year in fire alarms answered each year. The total runs for the year has already reached 344 and pushing forward to an other record year—this the city would like to avoid.

Fire Chief Luck pointed out a carelessly thrown match by a smoker can also start fires, a carelessly thrown lighter cigarette or cigar also can start fires. "See that they are out before throwing them away," Chief Luck warns.

The announcement of an "emergency" by Mayor Studer, means also, that offenders can be arrested and prosecuted in the City Court, according to Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors. "If it becomes necessary such action will be taken," Chief Neighbors reported.

Mrs. Crosby Remains In Grave Condition
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Oct. 30 (AP)—Dixie Lee Crosby's condition was unchanged today. The 40-year-old wife of crooner Bing remained in a coma in critical condition at the Crosby home here.

In poor health for several years, she was stricken gravely last Sunday and her family has been at her bedside since. Nature of her illness has not been disclosed.

Cross Roads Comment
—by G.H.S.
Sedalia is experiencing the worst season of fire hazards in a generation, or more. Fire fighters have been run ragged by the incessant calls to put out grass fires. When they are making a run or battling blazes, citizens should keep out of their way. Parking of automobiles in alleys very definitely is a fire hazard, particularly now. Policemen are tagging these cars.

Burning leaves on asphalt pavement is ruinous and also violates a city ordinance. A big leaf fire or concrete or brick pavements certainly doesn't help them either. On the latter small piles for burning lessen possible danger. That method is good under any circumstance to keep leaf fire under control.

Prairie Fires Rage In Clinton Vicinity

State Ready To Postpone Hunt Season

(By The Associated Press)
New fires, fed by tinder dry grass and brush, continued to break out in widely scattered parts of Missouri Thursday and it appeared the hunting season would be closed unless the situation eases within the next week.

The latest fires have broken out in the vicinity of Joplin, Kirksville and Clinton while an area from Potosi south to Fredericktown remains blanketed by flames. It was the worst day of the current outbreak of fires.

At Jefferson City, Gov. Forrest Smith said the situation is "getting severe—it is critical here in Missouri."

Smith said it would do no good to issue a proclamation now stopping all hunting in the state, but said "I will act" if the situation does not change by the time deer season opens next Thursday.

The governor estimated the damage from fires will "run into millions."

32 Counties Report Blazes
Smith said at his last report fires were raging in 32 of the State's counties. He explained that hunting would be illegal in the state from Saturday until the deer season opens Thursday with the exception of migratory fowl.

In southeast Missouri, farmers reported a high toll among small game and deer.

Paul Kihlmeier, U. S. forest ranger at Poplar Bluff, described the situation "as ripe for a disaster."

In southeast and southern Missouri new fires cracked out of control and a smoke plume blotted out the sun in many places.

Volunteers were rushed to an area 10 miles southeast of Hamilton in Caldwell County where a fire was reported out of control.

The regional office of the weather bureau in Kansas City issued a warning. It reported high southwest winds of Thursday would continue Friday.

High school students at Raytown, east of Kansas City, were dismissed from classes to help volunteers battle a fire roaring through dense brush and timber southeast of that town.

Another fire south of Independence was reported moving toward a residential addition.

50 Calls In Kansas City
In Kansas City the fire department had received 50 calls to grass fires by early afternoon.

Fires were brought under control at Sheldon, 10 miles east of Nevada, and LaMonte, west of Sedalia. The Sheldon fire covered nearly 2,000 acres in rolling country of mixed wood and meadow.

No injuries were reported. Students at a rural school near Sheldon were evacuated this morning. Hours later fire had burned around the one room frame building, but did not touch the school.

Stover Fighters Check Stubborn Forest Fire
A stubborn forest fire, which started Wednesday night seven miles south of Stover, was believed under control at 8 p. m. Thursday after taking on new life about noon.

The blaze, battled by volunteers from Stover including high school students, at one time threatened the home of Don Smelling and the Minnow Branch School.

White House Denies Removal Of Van Fleet From Korea Post

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—The White House denied tonight a published report that Gen. James A. Van Fleet is being relieved of his command in Korea as a result of writing a recent letter that figured in the political campaign.

Irving Perlmutter, assistant White House press secretary, said he had checked the report with President Truman's party in Detroit and it was "there was nothing to it whatsoever."

The Department of Defense and the Army declared they had "received no instructions from President Truman to relieve Gen. Van Fleet."

Andrew Berding, public information director for the Defense Department, gave this word to newsmen. He did so after conferring with Secretary of the Army Frank Pace; Gen. J. Lawton Collins, chief of staff of the Army, and Anna Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense.

Earlier in New York, the Daily News said Gen. Van Fleet was being relieved of his command in Korea.

The newspaper in its Friday edition says Van Fleet has been ordered back to Washington and will be replaced by Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, now deputy chief of staff for operation and administration.

In a dispatch from John O'Donnell, chief of its Washington bureau, the Daily News said the White House learned of the letter, which Van Fleet wrote Oct. 10 to Maj. Gen. Orlando C. Moad in Washington, soon after it was received.

The story continued: "Hard on the heels of this knowledge came the decision to remove Gen. Van Fleet in the near future. Privately the word came, if not to the general in Korea, certainly to Mrs. Van Fleet in Washington, the White House—dictated political move to call back the general. So Mrs. Van Fleet saw to it that a copy of her husband's letter reached sympathetic eyes—the eyes of Truman's political foe, Gen. Eisenhower."

ROK's In Good Shape
In the letter, as made public here last night by Gen. Eisenhower, Van Fleet described the South Korean Army as in "apple-pie" order.

Eisenhower, who has contended that Korean troops should man the front lines as soon as possible, read part of the letter on a radio-television program and said he was doing so to show that his plan was not impossible.

Van Fleet's letter also said his own plans called for doubling the South Korean military forces—from 10 to 20 divisions—and added:

"Being unable to get 10 more, I said: 'Give me six and I would release two U. S. divisions; or, give me four and I would release one U. S. division.' It finally got down to a two-division increase but still no approval to this date."

Eisenhower's headquarters said Mrs. Van Fleet received a copy of the letter from her husband and released it to Eisenhower.

Number Of Fires Hits 103 Here This Month

Sedalia's fire companies up to 5:48 p. m. Thursday have answered 103 fire alarms for the month with more than 95 percent of them being caused by burning grass and trash.

The total number of fire runs for the year is now 344, an average of nearly two fires each day.

A fire was started at 18th and Ohio at 1:06 p. m., when a resident took some trash out to burn. A stiff breeze stirred up sparks and carried them into some dry grass and with-in seconds another grass fire was raging.

While putting out this fire another alarm was received at 1:09 p. m. to 923 East Third—dry grass again.

Burning grass and weeds at 1804 South Park at 2:07 p. m. caused another run, followed at 4:20 p. m. to 2004 East Seventh; and another at 5:48 p. m. to 28th and Collins.

Joplin Fights Costly Fires Inside City

JOPLIN, Mo., Oct. 30—(AP)—Joplin was in the midst of a fire emergency today with flames raging in tinder dry grass and brush in and around the city of 37,000 persons.

One two-square mile area in the west and southwest parts of the city swept by one fire. A tourist court, several barns and garages and power lines were destroyed and several homes damaged.

The fires were spread by a strong southwest wind of 40-miles-an-hour.

Police Chief Roy Isgriss called it the worst fire emergency in years. Extra fire and police crews were called to duty.

The fire headquarters switchboard was flooded with calls from the affected areas. Firemen from Galena, Kan., and Webb City were called in to help fight the fires.

A dense plume of smoke hung over the entire city.

Volunteers were rushed to residential districts as other fires broke out.

Police said the grass fire which swept the west and southwest sections was started by four boys in a motor car. Destroyed was the Greystone Courts, an eight-unit tourist motel just east of Schiffocker Avenue on Seventh Street.

Another fire was reported in the Lone Elm district just northwest of the city limits. It destroyed one barn, one unoccupied house and threatened several other homes.

New York Times Stays On Ike's Bandwagon

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—The New York Times reiterated tonight its support of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican candidate for president.

In a news story to be published in its Friday edition, the Times takes cognizance of rumors that it would shift to Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic standard-bearer.

"Arthur Hays Sulzberger, publisher of the Times, said last night that the newspaper had no intention of shifting its support. He said the Times, which has announced and reiterated its support of Gen. Eisenhower, is considering no change."

Fire Scorches 30 Acres On Farm South Of Here

Fire believed to have started from a lighted cigarette or a carelessly thrown match, scorched approximately 30 acres of land on the farm of Asa Robertson, route 1, about 7 p. m. Thursday. The Robertson farm adjoins the Catholic Community Center to the east.

According to farmers in the vicinity, the flames started in the road ditch just east of the Center, and swept through a field and into some timber land, burning to the northeast. Volunteers, who arrived on the scene along with farmers, controlled the blaze at the north fence line of the Robertson farm and kept it from spreading onto the property of the Catholic Center.

It was under control in about an hour and a half. However, a number of volunteers and several farmers remained on the scene until late into the night, just in case sparks should be blown on other dry grass in the area.

'The Katy Railroad and the Last Frontier'

History of Katy and Sedalia Closely Interlocked, as Related In New Book

Sedalia was once the gateway to the Great Southwest—Southern Kansas, Oklahoma (then Indian territory), Texas and all the southwestern part of the United States.

The story is graphically told in the new book, "The Katy Railroad and the Last Frontier" which is a history of the Missouri, Kansas, Texas Lines. Written by V. V. Masterson and published by the University of Oklahoma Press, the most interesting volume made its appearance this month.

History of Sedalia and of the M-K-T is so closely connected that the story of one is almost the story of the other, and throughout the 289 pages of the book there are few pages that fail to mention either Sedalia or Sedalians.

Because the Missouri Pacific Railroad had been built to Sedalia, and thus offered a connection to the East, builders of the Katy hurried their lines' construction from Kansas and Oklahoma across Missouri to Sedalia. Here was the terminus for the road and it was that terminus that made Sedalia the "Gateway to the Southwest."

First Timetable Printed

After the Katy had printed the first timetable ever used on the system. It was a one page announcement of the new railroad's one train east and one train west each day between Sedalia and Clinton.

The first train over the line was run July 18, 1870 and it was a great day at Sedalia. Keathley's (between Sedalia and Green Ridge), at Parkersburg (now Green Ridge), Windsor, Calhoun, Lewis and Clinton. Practically the entire population at each stop turned out to see the first iron horse that had grazed the plains, belching smoke and coughing steam.

Train No. 1—westbound from Sedalia—left at 7:30 a.m. and was due in Clinton at 10:50 a.m. Eastbound No. 2 left Clinton at 1:30 p.m. and was due back at Sedalia at 4:40 p.m.

Some of the information contained on the first timetable concerned the operation of the trains: they were not permitted to cross trestle bridges at a speed of more than ten miles per hour; that trestle bridges were to be closed while crossing bridges or passing wood yards.

Gen. Smith First to Assist

General George R. Smith, founder of Sedalia, was, appropriately enough, the first to make efforts to assist what later became the Katy in efforts to come to this city. Having established his town, named for his daughter, Smith was certain of the MoPac coming to this location. Then he went to the State legislature to get laws that would assist other railroads.

In 1861 he secured passage of a law that would allow the extension of railroads "in any direction" from Sedalia. It was in that year that the MoPac tracks were laid to the town.

Nine years later the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway Company officially came into being under that name. Previously, it had been the Union Pacific Railway, Southern Branch.

Were Many Small Firms

With the new name, the road began to grow through the annexation of small railroad firms that were scattered throughout the area. It seems it was nothing at all for a group of men to establish a railroad in those days. Some of them even laid tracks, some just graded for track laying, some just plotted a course a railroad would take. Almost none ever ran a train.

Easements that had been secured were important and vital to those wanting to build real train-running railroads, however, and they were a saleable item on the market.

Finally, the M-K-T had all the easements it needed, and more. It had such dreams of grandeur that the line almost folded in the plans. There were those, however, who knew the line was needed, who hoped to be influential in the new west, who either had the necessary money or could get it, and who followed the railroad through to a very successful conclusion.

Bob Stevens First Manager

R. S. "Bob" Stevens, of Sedalia, general manager of the Katy at the time the first train was run from Sedalia, was one of those who followed the course of the road through its earliest years and almost until it was a complete system of the dreamers.

John Scullin, known as the most famous tracklayer of them all, headquartered in Sedalia for years, had a mighty big role in the growth of the line from the blueprints to the actual operations, both north and south from Sedalia.

Editor Goodwin Has Role

J. West Goodwin, editor of The Sedalia Bazaar, was another Sedalian who helped with the line. His pen was a powerful force in the early days and his print shop was the place where all the Katy literature was produced.

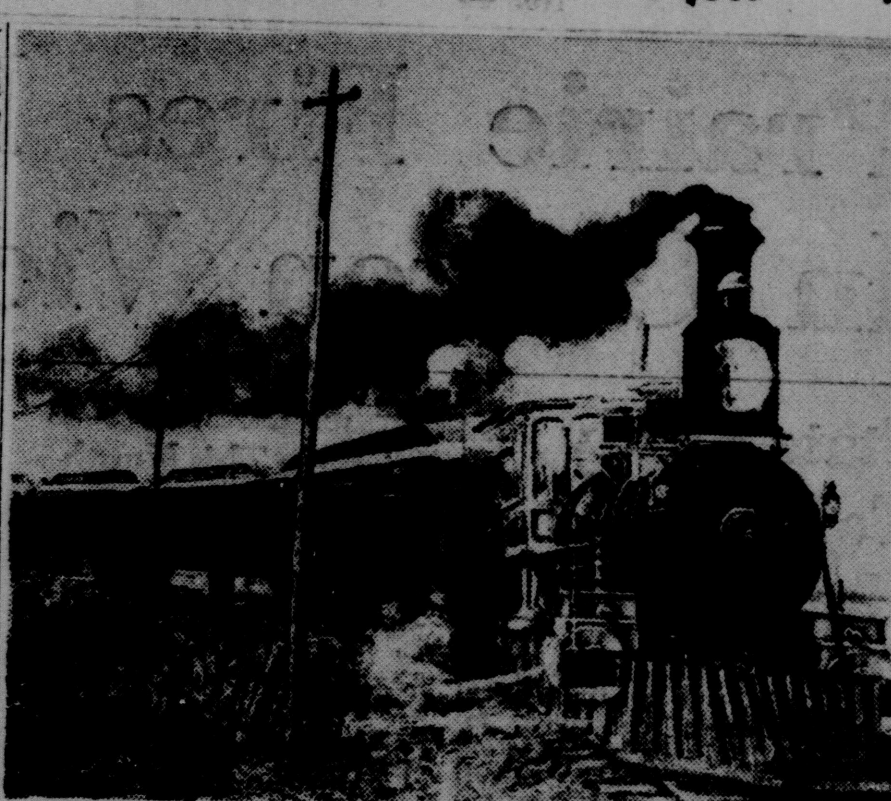

It was Goodwin who first foresaw and told the vast possibilities for the nation and for the world if a rail line could be opened to the Southwest. He wrote powerful editorials on the subject and his writings were taken seriously in the East, even spread abroad to Europe.

Perhaps it could be said that the message from his pen interested the necessary financing from the East that eventually made the railroad—and other lines—possible.

Many Interesting Facts

Not all history of the Katy is good, but as Masterson tells it, the facts prove interesting reading. He follows the course of the road through Missouri, through Kansas, through the Indian nations of Oklahoma and into Texas. It is a fascinating story of men and money, or troubles and triumphs, of wrecks and misfortunes and finally success.

Sedalia and Pettis County, like

PALATIAL TRAIN OF PAST—In their day, passenger trains like the one shown here were the equivalent of today's streamliners. However, considering the part they played in the settlement of America's frontiers, the comparative value of the early-day trains perhaps exceeds that of today's rockets of the rails. The importance of railroad transportation in the settlement of the great Southwest is stressed in a book entitled "The Katy Railroad and the Last Frontier" by V. V. Masterson, published by the University of Oklahoma Press.

PLANNED TRAIN WRECK—For publicity purposes the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad once planned a head-on collision of two locomotives. The wreck above, however, was not planned. It occurred on June 14, 1873, near Orrick, as the M-K-T was heading west of its newest locomotives toward Moberly. Three Katy and one Wabash engine were destroyed or seriously damaged. This is one of the illustrations from "The Katy Railroad and the Last Frontier" by V. V. Masterson, a book published by the University of Oklahoma Press.

other towns and counties along the route, raised large sums for the railroad, realizing that great benefits would come from such commerce. Then Sedalia became the main headquarters of the line and general offices were established here.

Texas Law Affects Sedalia

Later, as the book relates, the Katy had to move its offices to tions to the East, principally through Chicago.

The Missouri Pacific went to St. Louis and the Katy, at Sedalia, had those connections. Therefore, the main work was to build the line north to connect with what now is the Burlington. The link was to be made at Hannibal from where the line was already in use to Chicago.

Second Bridge Over Missouri

It was a struggle, and the building of a bridge to span the Big Muddy was completed six months before the famous Eads bridge was opened at St. Louis. The grand opening was on July 4, 1874 and the route then went as far as Moberly, meeting there with the Wabash (east and west).

Another railroad was already operating between Moberly and Hannibal, and it was purchased by the Katy for the connecting link to Chicago.

There were dark years ahead even after that, with new owners and new operations, and keen competition. Finally the present line emerged and the great Katy is still serving the Great Southwest.

Opened Last Frontier

"The Katy Railroad and the Last Frontier" is aptly named, for the road pioneered the opening of the last frontier in America and was there to serve the area long before Oklahoma and other states were admitted to the union. Once they joined, and became part of the nation, the Katy was serving a major portion of America.

The book is well written and interestingly prepared. Sedalia history not found in textbooks and little known to many residents will be found therein. We recommend its reading to all who would know of their town and why and how it grew.

Alumni Put-On Fine Program At Homecoming

It was a big night at Smith-Cotton High School Friday—homecoming crowning of queens and plenty of band music by the Jefferson City Jays, the S-C Tiger band and the Alumni band, and an "old fashion" queen was crowned at the half by the Alumni.

Miss Marilyn Garrett, selected by the Alumni to serve in the capacity of the "Alumni Queen," was driven upon the field in a model-A Ford convertible by Chester O'Bannon.

Maurice Hogan, Sedalia's postmaster and a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School several years back, was given the honor of crowning the queen. Postmaster Hogan remarked, "this is the second time I've had this honor." He crowned the Homecoming Queen back in the early thirties, when he was a member of the Tiger football team.

Cheerleaders of the Alumni were Pat Cook, Jerry Sims and Peggy Shull. They did a fine job, perhaps better than when they officially handled that department for Smith-Cotton.

The band was directed by Miss Jerry Teufel, who also directs the Smith-Cotton band. She is a member of the Alumni group. Band members of the graduates of Smith-Cotton High School were Don Gray, Kenneth Walker, Alan Bess, John Booth, Bill Jesse, Dr. David Robinson, Herman E. Blosser, Jr., Mrs. Ed Rigen, Wayne Rucker, Shirley Eryan, Bob Stanley, Kay Beth Sublett, Ray Mosier Jr., Sonny Rabourn and Don Wimer. Bill Mathews acted as the drum major. Twirlers were Miss Helen Biery and Ethel Vaught.

Ring master will be Frank Simms of Windsor.

Judges for the walking horse class, pleasure class and jumping class will be Vernon Miller and Frank Simms of Windsor.

Judge for steer riding, steer wrestling, steeple chase and calf riding is Ralph Anthony, foreman of the Ozark Land and Real Estate Co., Versailles.

The music will be by Chris Moore at the Hammond organ. E. A. Fischer is president of the Sedalia Club.

Local Firm Wins SAFB Contract For Barracks

The Department of the Air Force has let an additional contract for work on 18 airmen's barracks at the Sedalia Air Force Base, south of Knob Noster. The Cramer and Schrader Construction Co., of Sedalia was the low and successful bidder on the contract.

The contract was let by the Purchasing and Contracting Officer of the Air Force at the AFB. The amount of the contract was not stated.

In all of the buildings, covered by the contract, new sheetrock ceilings are to be placed, the buildings are to be rewired and new electric switches and light fixtures installed.

Two louver-type ventilators and exhaust fans, also will be placed in the barracks.

The buildings are to be painted both inside and out.

All meat heating ducts are to be lengthened and insulated with fiber-glass.

Work on the buildings is expected to get under way within the next few days, Walter Cramer of the construction company said.

Additional contracts are to be let by the Purchasing and Contracting Officer of the Air Force within a short time, it was announced last week by Major A. M. Bobbitt, at a press conference.

Work on the new 13-airmen dormitories and three mess hall administration buildings, which is being supervised by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, will get underway this week. This construction will be handled by the Martin Eby Construction Co., of Wichita, Kan.

The work on the runways should start within a few days. This contract was awarded to the Tecon Corp., of Dallas, Tex.

The latter work is also under the supervision of the Army Engineers.

Betty Ann Lumpe, Pot. Intelmann Wed at Lincoln

On Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock Miss Betty Ann Lumpe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lumpe of Warsaw, became the bride of Pvt. Stanley P. Intelmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Intelmann of Warsaw, at the Zion Lutheran Church in Lincoln. The Rev. Henry J. Luckey read the double ring ceremony before an altar setting of seven branch candelabra holding lighted white tapers, on which were bows of white satin and jade ribbon. Plaques were of jade foliage and white vases held large white chrysanthemums and pompons tied with white satin.

Mrs. Martin T. Pope played a program of organ music preceding the ceremony and Mrs. Mark Adams sang: "Because," "Oh, Promise Me" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white tulle with a deep sweetheart neckline outlined with an applique motif of Chantilly lace, long fitted sleeves tapering to points at the wrist and tight fitting basque waist. A deep border of Chantilly lace outlined the aisle wide cathedral length train. Patterns of the lace were applied into the skirt extending upward from the border to deep points at the hipline. Her headpiece was a coronet of seed pearls laced with folds of white satin which held a fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Avis Burton, matron of honor, wore an emerald green dress of velvet and tulle. The tight fitting bodice of velvet had a deep cuffed bertha which framed the wide neckline. The bouffant skirt was matching tulle over taffeta in ballerina length. Her headpiece was an emerald green velvet halo hat and she carried a bouquet of yellow mums tied with yellow satin.

Miss Leanna Moellman, bridesmaid, wore a dress fashioned in the same style as that of the matron of honor but in gold velvet and gold tulle over bronze satin. She carried a bouquet of yellow mums.

The soloist, Mrs. Mark Adams, Adams, wore a dress of bronze velvet and tulle styled like that of the other attendants.

The candlelighters, Miss Judy Singleton and Miss Marilyn Intelmann wore dresses in light green tulle of ballerina length.

Sandra Adams, flower girl, wore a ballerina length dress of chartrreuse taffeta and carried a basket of yellow and white petals.

The ushers were Mr. Lawrence Lumpe and Mr. John Hazel.

The bride's mother wore a dress of brown tulle with gold accessories and her corsage was a brown orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore a green suit dress with gold and bronze accessories. Her corsage was of green orchids.

A reception was held in the church basement immediately following the ceremony.

Policeman's Ball Has Over 600 Dancers On Floor

The annual Policeman's Ball was held Friday night and proved to be another one of their successful events. More than 1,200 tickets were sold by the police officers and nearly half that number were present for the activities at Convention Hall, Liberty Park.

Surprisingly, policemen didn't have to "house" the public to buy their tickets. This year a new system was used whereby the public contacted the police for their tickets. In some instances, blocks of five to 35 tickets were sold by the purchasers calling police headquarters and asking delivery on the tickets.

Nelson White's six piece orchestra furnished the music for dancing from 9 until midnight.

Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors reported he was well pleased with the affair, both in attendance, the response of the ticket buyers and the cooperation of the police in the public in general.

Miss Nomah Snow Is Bride Sunday Of Sgt. Peters In Church Nuptials

Before the altar of the First Methodist Church Sunday afternoon, October 19, at 2:30 o'clock, vows were exchanged by Miss Nomah Dean Snow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Snow, route 3, Sedalia, and Staff Sergeant William E. Peters, son of Mrs. Zella Siebert, Mount Union, Pa.

Baskets of all white flowers, gladioli, large chrysanthemums and pompons and arrangements of jade foliage interspersed with four seven branch candelabra holding white lighted tapers formed the background for the double ring ceremony read by the Rev. Roy L. Bowers, pastor of the church.

Mrs. C. D. Demand at the organ gave a prelude of wedding music which included "Nocturne in E Flat," "Bells of St. Mary's" and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

Mrs. Demand, also, accompanied Mr. Raymond Marcks who sang "I Love Thee" "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, wearing a gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon net over taffeta, was given in marriage by her father. The floor length gown as designed with lace bodice, low sweetheart neckline with tiny lace edging, and fitted sleeves that tapered at the wrists. The deep points of the lace bodice extended down into the net of the very full skirt. A double tiered veil of illusion that covered the bride's face as she walked to the altar was attached to a close fitting white satin cap, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and carnations.

Miss Dorothy Lou Snow, sister of the bride, as maid of honor wore a gown of honey shade tulle fashioned with fitted bodice and a wide fissure bertha of tulle covered the shoulders. It was edged with tiny ruffles of the tulle and the long full skirt over matching tulle was trimmed with rows of the tulle ruffling at the hipline. Her headpiece was a small matching taffeta bandeau with bronze pompon chrysanthemums. She carried a cascade bouquet of bronze pompon chrysanthemums tied with yellow satin ribbon.

The two bridesmaids, Miss Peggy Williams of Kansas City and Miss Waneta Renfrow of Sedalia, wore gowns of tulle fashioned like that of the maid of honor, Miss Williams in rust shade with cascade bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums tied with rust ribbon and Miss Renfrow in emerald green with bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums tied with ribbon matching her dress. Yellow carnations were used on their bouquets.

The candles were lighted by Mrs. Tom Scott of Hughesville and Miss Marvella Harbit of Sedalia whose gowns of yellow tulle over taffeta were styled similar to those of the bridesmaids. The necklines formed deep V's in both the front and back. Their wrist corsages were of bronze pompons and they wore matching flowers in their hair.

Patricia Lewis, of Sedalia, cousin of the bride, as flower girl scattered flower petals from a basket down the aisle. She wore a white dress designed like the bride's and her tiny veil was held in place with white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Robert T. Dewey of Beaver Falls, Pa., served as best man and ushers were Mr. James E. Kiley, Stockton, Kan.; Mr. Lawrence G. Maccioni, of Youngstown, Ohio; Mr. Gerald E. Thomas, Topeka, Kan.; and Mr. Lelmon Taylor of Florida.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Snow selected a dress of navy blue with black and white accessories and her corsage was of white carnations. Mrs. Cora Snow, the bride's grandmother, wore a dress of navy blue with black and white accessories and her corsage was of white chrysanthemums.

A reception was held immediately after the service in the Church dining room. The four tiered square wedding cake decorated with yellow rosesbud on top and encircled with greenery and flowers in autumn shades of white with bride's table. On either side were burning white tapers in silver candelabra. The

Old Coins---

Liberty Standing
Quarters '16 to '36;
Vary In Values

By Bill Hert

A series of coins that will add to the value of a collection of "old coins" are the Liberty standing quarters which were coined from 1916 to 1936 inclusive.

While the few number made during the period these quarters were made, accounts to some extent for the premiums being offered and paid by collectors, the rarity factor is caused by the design of the coin itself.

The highest point, raised above all other parts of the design, and therefore the point that would be subject to the first wear in circulation, is the date. After a very short time in circulation, the date would be completely worn off, while otherwise the coin would show practically no wear. The obvious result is that collectors, trying to make a complete set of all dates and finding of this quarter, have a hard time finding these coins with sharp dates. Therefore, all of these coins command a premium of from two to 50 times their face value.

There is one exception to the story and premium of these coins, and that is, in 1925, the date was sunk, or depressed, down into the design and from that date until the end of this type quarter, 1930, the date withstood any other parts of the design and the rarity factor was lost. The result was that the quarters for these six years do not have any premium, but still leave nine years, 1916 to 1924 inclusive, that do.

Coupled with the wearing of the date is the all important factor that accounts for the premium of any coin, the small amount made in any one year or mint. With these two facts, the 1916, or first year of these quarters, is the rarest, there being only 52,000 made. Other high premium dates or mints are: 1919-S, 1921, 1923-S. The mint letter on these coins is found just above the date, to the left, next to the lowest star.

Questions and Answers

Q. How is the best way to clean coins?

A. The best way is, don't. Many coins have been damaged and the premium value reduced by cleaning or polishing. All cleaning agents have some type of abrasive which scratch the coin. Collectors much prefer coins that have tarnish or discoloration.

Q. I have an old penny, dated 1787, and has "Massachusetts cent" on it. Is this a U. S. coin and what is it worth?

A. Prior to the establishment of the U. S. mint, in 1793, some states authorized and struck many different types of coins, to be used as legal tender. Many of these were made in England and France and imported into this country. The coin you mention is worth from two to five dollars, depending upon condition.

Farmer Offers Reward For Information About Person Who Trespassed

T. W. Taylor, 1010 South Monroe, offers a $50 reward for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of the person or persons responsible for a fire which ruined four acres of timber Wednesday afternoon on his farm, located northwest of the Muddy Creek bridge on US Highway 50.

According to Taylor, it was necessary to start a backfire to save several acres of corn and farm buildings, including a house.

An investigation after the fire, Taylor said, showed the blaze started when a trespasser allowed burning paper, used in smoking, out a bee tree, to blow through the woods.

Miss Marjorie Ellen Scruton Bride Saturday of Mr. William Bergmann

The glow of candlelight, from the burning of pink tapers in tall candelabra on either side of the altar setting, touched softly, the pink gladioli which with the arrangements of jade foliage formed the background for the marriage of Miss Marjorie Ellen Scruton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Scruton Jr., 712 West Third, and Mr. William Carl Bergmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Bergmann, 714 East Eighteenth, at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, October 25. The altar vases held pink carnations and the candelabra were entwined with smilax. Pink satin ribbons marked the pews.

The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Walter F. Strickert in the St. Paul's Lutheran Church, of which he is the pastor. Preceding the ceremony, Miss Mildred Brackman, organist, played a prelude of nuptial music and accompanied Miss Phyllene Bergmann who sang "Through the Years," "Today, Oh Lord" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. William Taylor and Mrs. Harold Bergmann, wearing identical gowns of light blue net over tulle, with very full skirts, strapless bodices and net stoles over their shoulders, lighted the candles. They carried pink candles surrounded with pink carnations and their wrist corsages were of pink carnations.

The bride, whose father gave her in marriage, wore a gown of light blue tulle with long tapering sleeves covered with dyed-to-match Chantilly lace. The softly rolled, standing Elizabethan collar outlined the deep V-neckline. The skirt was fashioned slim at the hipline, flaring at the hem and widening the sides into a train of unusual length and beauty. Her headpiece, double folds of pink satin shaped into a tiara, held her illusion of blue pink silk which fell to her fingertips. Her bride's bouquet combined pink carnations and stephanotis in a shower arrangement.

The maid of honor, Miss Evelyn Romig, wore a dress of garnet velvet and nylon tulle over taffeta. The moulded bodice of velvet had a deeply sculptured bustline with miniature ruffles of nylon tulle and the shoulders were covered with a bertha of the velvet. The floor length skirt of nylon tulle over taffeta was gathered very full at the waistline. Her headpiece, double folds of garnet velvet, was fashioned into a half bonnet, and she carried a bouquet of rubrum lilies.

The bridesmaids, Miss Loretta Burton and Miss Nancy McAtee, wore gowns styled like that of the maid of honor in sunset pink velvet and nylon tulle with sunset pink velvet half bonnets.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Judy Scruton, younger sister of the bride, wore a dress of sunset pink taffeta and nylon tulle of the same design as the other attendants and her half bonnet was of taffeta of matching shade.

All of the bridesmaids carried bouquets of rubrum lilies, their shadings of pale pink, rose and deep wine perfectly complementing the color of their dresses.

Mr. Harold Bergmann of Sedalia, served his brother as best man, and groomsmen were Mr. Phillip Bergmann of St. Louis, Mr. Archie Allen of Kansas City and Mr. Roy Edging of Sedalia.

Ushers were Mr. Marvin Scheller and Mr. Rudolph Grother.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Scruton selected a floor length dress of pink lace and the bridesgroom's mother wore a formal of gray with lace top and gray skirt. Both had corsages of brown chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Sedalia Country Club. The bride's table was covered with a net flounce cloth over satin that was caught up at the corners with pink roses tied with satin ribbon. In the center was the tiered wedding cake, decorated with pink roses and a miniature bride and bridegroom, and encircled with smilax and pink roses. On either side were pink lighted tapers and as a background for the table were baskets of pink gladioli and carnations and jade foliage. The tables holding the punch bowls were covered with white net cloths and the punch bowls were surrounded with greenery.

LaMonte Alarmed By Fire

Grass Blaze Spreads Until 300 Persons, Including SAFB Men, Get It Under Control

A carelessly tossed cigarette by a motorist started a prairie fire which could have proved disastrous to the city of LaMonte about 9:30 a. m. Thursday. Hard and fast work by more than 300 volunteers, ranging from school children to grown men and women, brought the fire under control with a minimum loss to property. Citizens of LaMonte are extremely grateful to the personnel of the Sedalia Air Force Base and the city of Warrensburg, which sent fire fighting equipment, and to the hundreds of volunteers who rushed to the scene and formed bucket brigades or beat the fire with wet sacks.

Stopped at City's Edge
The fire was stopped at the north end of the west side of the town when Elvin Wells of the LaMonte Special Road District drove the road maintenance machine into the field and dropped the cutting blade to slash away the dry grass, making a ten-foot path.

The Sedalia Air Force Base had more than 35 GIs on hand in their work clothes. The men accompanied the large tank truck to LaMonte, riding in fire pick-up trucks equipped with fire pump buckets and water barrels.

The fire started on the north shoulder of Highway 50 about a half mile west of the Clair E. Files filling station. It swept northward from there but was kept in a bath of between 250 and 700 feet wide by volunteers who ran along the edges beating the flames with wet sacks and shooting water on them with fire pump buckets.

More Than Mile Long
The path was swept along fast by the strong wind blowing toward the northeast, and was than a mile long before being cut off.

Before the fire was completely out, the Warrensburg combination street flusser and fire truck, equipped with a tank carrying 1,500 gallons of water, arrived on the scene with two firemen, Clarence Martin and John McMillan, and it was put into operation.

Burns Small Buildings
The fire burned into the backyard of a vacant residence owned by Julius Watson, Sparta, setting fire to a small tool shed, an outside toilet and the rear part of a one-car garage. The loss was estimated at about $300. Quick action of neighbors, in putting to use garden hoses, kept the fire from getting into other buildings along the path of the blaze.

LaMonte residents express gratitude for the water system which was obtained about three years ago through a $55,000 bond issue. The system was completed about a year ago, and Thursday it was put to good use by the volunteer fire department and others. The fire men used two long one-half inch hoses to get water to various threatened areas, which otherwise might not have been held in control.

Mayor Directs Fight
Paul Moore, fire chief at LaMonte, was in Kansas City when the fire broke out, and the directing of the fire fighters fell under the jurisdiction of Mayor Floyd McKeehan.

The Sedalia Air Force Base personnel was under the direction of Major James Burlingame and Lieut. W. J. Buffo. As soon as the fire was brought under control the men returned to their base to stand by to assist other communities in danger.

The LaMonte High School was dismissed so the older boys and girls could go to the scene and give their assistance. This crew of volunteers stood their ground and fought alongside their elders.

No one had put the courtroom clock back on standard time.

Prisoner 'Confessions' Called Black Mark Against Commies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Air Force Finletter said today the extraction of "confessions" from Allied prisoners of war is one of the blackest marks against communism.

"All members of the American armed forces, and particularly those of the U. S. Air Force, feel an intense revulsion against Chinese Communist methods of forcing false confessions from their victims to provide grist for the Communist propaganda mill," Finletter said in a statement.

"These barbaric methods of endeavoring to 'brain-wash' the minds of soldiers for propaganda purposes are among the blackest marks yet recorded against the Communist regimes."

Finletter commented in answer to queries about a charge by the Air Force Association in Air Force Magazine last week that the Communists tortured two U. S. fliers into making false confessions that they took part in germ warfare.

The fliers are Lt. John S. Quinn, 30, Altadena, Calif., and Lt. Kenneth L. Enoch, 27, Youngstown, Ohio. They have been listed as missing in action since their B25 bomber was lost on a night mission in North Korea last Jan. 13.

"There is no doubt in anyone's mind that the testimony of Lt. Enoch, for example, was forced on every single point," Finletter said.

The Communists have circulated photographs of a statement, apparently written by Enoch, saying in part:

"I am beginning to see very

Reds Predict India to Reds Without War

NEW DELHI (AP)—Top Communists here confidently predict India is one country Stalin will win without armed revolution.

Red leaders arriving for the six-week Parliament session opening Nov. 5 laughed off evidence that Communist strength has nosedived since the string of upset Red election victories nine months ago.

They are working overtime to get party propaganda machinery ready for the session, refurbishing parliamentary headquarters on fashionable Windsor Place and the new national party office nearby.

The Indian Communist Politburo recently switched national headquarters from the Southern state of Madras to the capital to make the most of the publicity spotlight in Parliament politics.

In addition to elaborate research facilities to keep Communist solons a step ahead with facts and figures, General Secretary Asaf Ghosh said party headquarters will now coordinate Parliament observances with the lively, veraculous language Communist press springing up throughout the country.

Since Parliament adjourned in August, surface signs have been increasingly pointing to a decline in Communist power in the shifting party lineups.

Some observers, however, question the importance of anti-Communist alignments in the face of the growing intensity of Communist propaganda drives.

The Communists bitterly attacked the recent merger of the Socialist party and the Praja (People's) party into the new Praja Socialist party. At the insistence of Socialist leaders, the new group ruled out any ties with the Communists.

The combined Praja-Socialist bloc in Parliament will now number 22. This will challenge Communist claims to leadership of the opposition. The new group may attract often independent party deputies to its banner.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.

Associated Press News Analyst

Despite the usual United States tendency to kiss off every Russian proposal as a snare and a delusion, Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky has made a strong appeal to the mind of the world on the Korean question.

The small nations of the world which will be trampled in any great war are strongly in favor of exploring any avenue which might lead to peace.

Vishinsky's suggestion for the organization of a commission composed of the directly interested nations and others to study the question sounds very reasonable to many, both among America's allies and the neutrals. You can expect considerable support from Asians, Middle Easterners and Latin Americans. And Britain has long inveighed against any sort of intransigence on the Allied side.

The initial U. S. reaction was that Vishinsky was trying to take the Korean truce discussions out of the military and into the political field for propaganda purposes, and that if Russia was interested in stopping the war she could do so at any moment.

The U. S. contends Russia wants to make a new start on the whole business when the matter of repatriation of prisoners of war is the only remaining issue. But Vishinsky recognized that, too, and on the face of his proposed resolution a new start would not seem necessary.

The U. S. thinks the war zone is the proper place for truce negotiations. But how it can put up a strong argument about that is hard to see, since Panmunjom has proved a complete failure.

In fact, Secretary Acheson may not be able to stick to his original reaction. One argument that will be used against him by the delegates who grasp at any peaceful-looking straw will be that Russia, the real moving force in the Korean War, would be faced directly if negotiations were moved to the U. N., whereas she is merely a shadow behind Panmunjom.

The United States already has admitted, by asking for a U. N. resolution of approval for Allied conduct at Panmunjom, and for a U. N. appeal to China to end the war, that a policy decision is needed. In other words, the U. S. itself brought the question to the U. N. The matter thus resolves itself into a question of how the decision should be reached.

Neutral nations already are joining in a movement to water down the U. S. resolution. Amendments are being proposed which would omit the endorsement of previous acts, and merely leave it as an appeal to the enemy to agree on repatriation. That would be taken in many quarters as direct disapproval of U. S. conduct of the war and be highly embarrassing. The American delegation is thus caught in the middle, and the chances are that some compromising will be necessary before they get out.

There is no use pretending that Russia really intends to do anything about peace. She has in Korea, at small cost to herself, a situation which costs the Allies more than she like to pay. So Vishinsky's proposal can quite rightly be appraised as merely a maneuver for position. But it is in just such maneuvering for position that the Allies must keep their skirts clean in the eyes of the neutrals, and the U. S. in the eyes of her allies.

The Russian resolution itself is one of the least controversial they have ever offered. The controversy would come over the selection of members of the truce commission and adoption of an agenda. These hurdles quite probably would never be passed. But there's a lot of support in the U. N. for the idea of exploration, anyway.

clearly just who is the peace-lover and who is the warmonger responsible for this inhuman war, and am determined to struggle for peace against Wall Street capitalism, to clear my conscience of my past crimes."

The article about the fliers called attention to the striking similarity among the extracted "confessions," as publicized in the Russian radio and press—and to repeated use of Communist stock phrases.

It frankly presented no new evidence that the confessions had been forced.

Veteran Shoots Wife 10 Times; Takes Own Life

AUGUSTA, Kan., Oct. 30 (AP)—A slender, emotionally-disturbed veteran pumped 10 bullets into his petite, brown-haired wife then shot himself in the head, Coroner N. H. Overholser reported today.

Deaths of Mrs. Betty Cooper, 24, and her husband, John William Cooper, about 30, were termed murder and suicide by a coroner's jury.

Two witnesses, R. D. Burns and Jim Bohrens, told the jurors they were going to their car from a restaurant in the heart of the business district shortly before midnight last night, when they saw Mrs. Cooper dart from the doorway of her apartment, scream, and fall.

Her crumpled body came to rest at the foot of the stairway to the street, the coroner said, with 10 bullet holes in it.

Sheriff Alva Gill said Cooper locked the apartment door, then shot himself with the 22 repeating rifle he had fired at his fleeing wife.

The Coopers lived in an apartment above the drug store owned by the veteran's father, John Cooper. They had been married just six months.

Friends said there was no sign of trouble when Cooper finished work at the drug store at 9 p. m., the coroner said.

Cooper had been ill, friends reported, and recently had seen a physician in nearby Wichita about an emotional disturbance, the coroner added. He said the veteran left no note to reveal a motive.

Cooper's parents, of Augusta, and Mrs. Cooper's parents, of El Dorado, Kan., survive.

Three Square Miles Of Timber Land Burns

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—A farm-land and timber fire covering three square miles was still out of control late last night five miles south of here.

Flames were visible from Rosecrans Air Field seven miles away and a thick pall of smoke hung over the area.

Polio Slacks Off Last Week In State

JEFFERSON CITY, (AP)—Polio slackened off a little in Missouri last week, but new cases are still coming in faster than they did last year at the same time.

Opium Raids In Singapore Close 'Dens'

SINGAPORE (AP)—Relentless police raids on illegal opium dens in this British colony have forced addicts to come into the open and appeal for government distribution of the drug.

Truckloads of police swoop several times a night on some of the estimated 2,000 dens in Chinatown and along the waterfront and river-side districts.

Since the campaign began last July, more than 550 persons have been charged before the courts and 333 have been jailed for smoking, running dens and trafficking in the drug. Smokers get sentences of two weeks imprisonment, the den-keepers and smugglers six months.

The addicts, under the name of the "Opium Smokers Association," appealed to Gov. John F. Nicoll to reintroduce legal opium distribution in the name of "humanity and mercy." The petition added: "The millions that opium brought to the government's coffers before the war now seeps underground into the pockets of smugglers."

A legislative councillor, Dr. C. J. Paglar, asked the government to consider registering the estimated 80,000 addicts here and rationing the drug to them on a diminishing scale.

There is not much likelihood the Singapore government will consider seriously either suggestion. The colonial secretary, W. L. Blythe, made this statement:

"We are sure depriving addicts of opium is the only certain cure. I cannot agree at this stage that the government should open the opium trade and introduce rationing."

Before World War II, the Malaya and Borneo governments grossed profits equal to 6½ million dollars annually from opium.

Most of Singapore's opium dens are hovels in which weary Chinese coolies relax with the pipe after the day's labor. Others are luxurious apartments staffed by pretty Chinese hostesses.

Before the war opium cost $4.30 for 1¼ ounces. Now it costs $23 for the same amount. A smoker pays 35 cents for enough to fill a pipe.

A $10 bet on Stevenson would win $11 according to latest bookmakers' odds.

Before the war, Mainz had 155,000 inhabitants, but at war's end only 52,253 were left.
